No Session of the House Yesterday Because of Carlisle's Tardiness.

THE ATTACK ON AMBASSADOR BAYARD

He Will Be Censured, but It Is Not Probable That Congress Will Impeach Him.

Washington, December 11 .- (Special.)-Nothing but the senate was in session today and nothing developed there but the fact that the young element in that body are no longer to be kept in the background by the fessils of the Sherman-Hoar-Cockrell variety. Young Senator DuBols, of Idaho, had a fight to have the appropriation bills taken away from the one committee which has heretofore held all power, and have them parceled out among the committees best qualified to consider them. It developed that DuBois had the majority of the senate with him, and this is to be done under the new organization. The democratic senatorial leaders are rather rejoicing over the fact that the republicans are to assume the reorganiza-

In the meantime the president is still down the coast indulging in duck shooting and other sport. He went down to throw congress off his hands for a time, but the ndications are that he will find congress a heavier burden when he returns. He has been wired for by Olney, but is not expected before Friday or Saturday, and ngress will have to wait until next week to hear from both Salisbury and Carlisle. In the meantime much impatience prevails

Will Censure Bayard.

There is but one week more of congress before the holiday adjournment, which begins on the 21st. Congress will not then meet again until Monday, January 5th. Then the committees will begin a grind. Perhaps the first thing reported back will be the Bayard resolution. That Bayard is to be conguered by the republican house is foregone conclusion, but he will not be peached. The debate promises to be interesting one and may lead to discus about our diplomatic and consular ce generally, in which there is much rial for debate.

tom of the house. It may be as gay as was Reed's last congress, but it will not be of Reed's making. The democrats for Reed, and a few of the leaders know to do that.

Cameron's Retirement. The announcement on the part of Senator would retire at the expiration of his pres nt term in the senate has created no en of gossip here. Cameron will have com-pleted a term of twenty years' service in the senate when he goes out. In that time he has rarely ever falled to move on either Thursday or Friday of each week that the senate adjourn over until Monday. He was lways opposed to Saturday sessions and for years been known as the "official ourner" of the senate. Wanamaker Is Quay's Choice. Cameron's retirement will be a severe loss to the silver element of the senate. He is a strong free coinage man. Though not a debater, he is a successful business man several times a millionaire-and much influence in the senate. Cameron's ent will lead to a life and death struggle among the opposing republican eaders in Pennsylvania. It will lead to a ght to the finish between the elements i the Keystone State, led by Matt Quay and Chris Magee respectively. It is said that Quay, always shrewd, has already decided upon John Wanamaker as his candidate for a colleague in the senate and is already Pennsylvania's next senator. While the social side of Washington will egret the loss of Cameron, it will welcome return of Wanamaker. Next to liam C. Whitney, Wanamaker proved the most elaborate and extravagant entertainer Washington's official circle has ever

And Wanamaker will make about as good as the average senator. He has none of the qualities that go to make up a statesman, but in that he will have ample He will be a fit acquisition to th gnized millionaire club, and besides that may be expected to do all sorts of queer large something to talk about. The ruling on of course will prevail with him, as did when he was postmaster his efforts to advertise his Philadelphia bargain counter from the floor of the senate he will create no end of interesting newspaper topics.

All kind of men go to make up the senate and if there were not newsmakers in it to the monotony occasionally with some a light and airy or peculiar and queer things of life the readers of happenings in congress would grow too serious.

Ingalls, of Kansas, used to be one of these newsmakers. It was a regret to every spaper correspondent in Washington the was defeated. His successor, Peffer furnished only a queer physical make-up furnished only a queer physical make-up as a topic to write about. He has none of the scintillating brilliancy of Ingalls, and ed no man has yet appeared in the te who could equal the Kansan in the use of words.

It is men who do something who make news—and Wanamaker will be sure to try anyhow. A Talk with Tillman. As soon as Senator Ben Tillman, of South rolina, becomes accustomed to his new rolina, becomes accustomed to his new rness he is expected to draw attention. t he will not perform until he knows his

had a talk with him today about what intended doing. "Not a god-blessed ng." said he, "for the present. I have views and opinions, but I am not going be airing them as a new senator; no, sir, m not the man to drag my plow about the going pround before I know where the stumps are and before I know my surroundings. Glad to see you at all times and I don't mind talking but not for print on Then he went on with talk that would read well, but it was not for print.

More Bonds Looked For. While the treasury reports show a cash balance on hand of $175,000,000, the gold reserve has gotten far below the $100,000,000 mark, and predictions are being made that withdrawals will be so heavy as to cause another bond issue in the near future. There seems to be no chance for con gress doing anything to relieve the situatien. This congress is as badly divided as was the last. Nothing can go through the senate unless there be silver in i it is a known fact that Mr. Cleveland is against any further recognition of the white metal. Mr. Carlisle will not take advantage of his option to pay out silver. Congress will not accept Mr. Cleveland's suggestion, so here the country is in the same condition it has been for two years.

Mr. Cleveland will probably continue to resort to the temporary expedient of a bond issue. There may be another in the near future, and thus it seems that it

The Presidential Election.

Speaking of the presidential election, the republicans had quite a fight over the place of holding their convention and other things. They have gone along as though they had nothing to do but nominate a candidate, presuming his election would be a matter of course. But it may not be. There is lots of war talk being indulged n about here just now. Suppose this venezuelan matter should lead to a scrap with England; or the recognition of the Cubans to a row with Spain-either is liketo occur-then the next president would be a democrat. With a war on our hands the people would never make a decide chenge.

Perhaps Mr. Cleveland, in his third term mbitions, has thought of this. He struck a popular chord in what he said in his mes. age on the Venezuelan matter, and when ne writes his second message and sends Salisbury's reply, there may be lots of war talk in Such a thing as a war with England would soon bring the opposing elements together on financial matters, and might lead to many other things.

Has Cleveland a Gun?

Everybody is amazed that Mr. Cleve-land should have slipped away on a junk-et at such an important period. Yet he is away with a few of his chums, and though reports come back about his killing ducks galore, it is said he carried no gun. That may or it may not be. Certain it is that this and other countries are in suspense awaiting to hear the contents of Salis bury's note and what is to be done about We may hear next week.

Much talk is being indulged in here now to the effect that Senator Hill will assume the position of leader and spokes senate. This is perhaps due to the fact that Hill has been an advocate of the retirement of the greenbacks, and because of the fact that he called upon the president several times during the last days of the last congress.

Hill has no more love for the president than formerly. Yet Hill is a man of ambition and will, if such be possible, push himself to the democratic leadership of the senate. He may lead, but he will neve be the representative of Mr. Cleveland on the floor. The two men dislike each other too intensely for that.

THE THUNDERER ON BAYARD. Thinks Impeachment Is Out of Proportion to the Offense.

London, December 11.-The Times pub ishes an editorial in which it banters congressmen who have attacked Mr. Bayard. It remarks upon the high respect in which embassador is held here, where it not be of Reed's making. The democrats says it is known that he did not intend that his speeches should interfere with contests in America. At the same time, it is quite easy to understand from a republican point of view that the ampassador for a whole nation ought not to We should be greatly surprised if envoy of a European power delivered such speeches. Even in Mr. Bayard's case there was some little astonishment. Nevertheless impeachment seems a very disproportionate punishment for what at worst was an indiscretion. Surely such a weapon ought to be reserved for the enenies of the whole nation and not brought forth to avenge a small injury to the feelings of one party. There is something absurd in having recourse to such a very remedy for the nfraction of dipl matic usage. It shows a degree of p cal levity for which it is hard to find an Comment of The Gazette. London, December 11.-The St. James Gazette commenting upon the attack made

An Address by the Commander-in-Chief of the Cuban Patriots.

RELATES SPANISH ATROCITIES

How Cuban Soldiers Were Betrayed and Murdered.

THE GENERAL ADVISES HIS TROOPS

Not To Attempt Retaliation, but Continue To Carry on Their Struggle for Freedom.

New York, December 11.-A copy of an address issued by Maximo Gomez, generaln-chief of the Cuban army, from his headquarters at Santa Teresa, on October 31, 1895, has just been received in this city.

It is as follows: "In the sublime struggle that the Cuban people have commenced again, after, a lapse of seventeen years, to throw off the yoke of their eternal oppressor-the Spanlards, whenever they find occasion to do so with impunity, have resumed the same atrocious proceeding they carried on during the ten years' war. In the beginning of the present revolution the oppressor, on account of more advanced civilization, thought proper to make public a declaration of carrying on the war humanely. But the natural laws of inheritance cannot be changed in an hour and the Spanish army at the end of the year 1895 acts in precisely the same manner that it did from 1868 to 1878, which will be proved from what I am about to relate.

"On October 16th, a lieutenant of the Spanish army, accompanied by four sol-diers, two of whom were Cubans, pre-Colonel Fusto Sanchez and asked to be incorporated in the Cuban army. On the 24th the Spanish lieutenant and his men asked for a leave of absence to go and bring some arms and ammunition, which they had hidden near Ciego de Avila, requesting the rebel leader at the same time to send five men of trust with them, which was granted. . The leader sent with them Captain Jose Agramonte de Varona, bis aid-de-camp, a lieutenant, a corporal and two soldiers. A mile and a half from Ciego de Avila they dismounted and left the horses in care of the two Cuban soldiers and the rest proceeded to fulfill their commission. Hardly half an hour passed when, after several shots had been fired, two of the Spanish soldiers returned to the place where the Cubans were awaiting with the horses, saying that they had been attacked by Spaniards, who were lying in ambush, and that the other six companions had been killed or fatally wounded.

"Then they decided to hide in the woods. but hardly had they entered when the Spaniards treacherously fired on the Cubans, both of whom escaped unhurt. One of the Cubans immediately took flight to the woods and the two infamous cowards tried to kill the other with the butt end of their guns. But their cowardice only equaled their infamy, and after inflicting serious wounds on the Cuban's head they took flight, notwithstanding that the Cuban though blinded with the blood from his head was loading his gun again to fire Captain Agramonte, the lieutenant, and the corporal were assassinated and mutilated. The two Cuban soldiers escaped. In vain do the Spaniards declare in the public press and from the tribune a line of will raise them in the an honest and upright soldier, I repudiate the action I here announce to the civilized world. As general in chief of the order never to use dishonorable proceedings, which may injure those who execute them more than those who suffer them has never been disregarded by my subal terns. Let Spain in the last days of its execrable dominion and with its dolefu signs of impotence boast of its wicked in stincts; but we must not use reprisals. The culpable will be punished with all the Spaniards will have no imitators among MAXIMO GOMEZ. "General in Chief of the Cuban Army."

Washington, December 11.—The senate was in session today for only an hour and a quarter and it then adjourned until to-morrow. Three propositions were introduc-ed in honor of distinguished men of the past. The second was for a $50,000 more ment to the naval hero, John Paul Jones, to be erected in Washington. Mr. Allen, populist, of Nebraska, spoke on his resolution for the recognition of Cuban beligerency, which also went over without action. He declared that the populist party was as thoroughly committed to the Monroe doctrine as either the demo-cratic party or the republican party; and he scoffed at American citizens who were so ready to become "English lords or lords in some other country," and at the Ameri-can women who were "willing to waste themselves on titled mendicants from the Washington, December 11.—Stephen Bon-sal, of Maryland, transferred during the recess of congress from the position of secretary of legation at Madrid to that of second secretary of legation at Tokio, Japan, appears to have run afoul of a snag in the committee on foreign relations of the senate. Democratic Bimetallists of Indiana Say They Will Be Heard From.

Indianapol's, Ind., December 11.-The conference of state democratic leaders held at the Grand hotel today. The feature of the meeting is the demand by the free silver wing for recognition. They insist on committing the party to their views and the attempts of this end have stirred up matters in a lively fashion. O. S. Clark of Greensburg, is the leader of the silver wing, and he thus expressed

"We have decided not to introduce silver resolution on one condition; that no other resolutions be introduced on any question whatever. Looks as if there was more there.' Megarden replied that he had finished the document and took his departure about 1:30 o'clock. After Megarden had left Hay

"Say, if there are any newspaper men down there, put that in or you will see cold, clammy hands down the back of your necks, and you'll know what that means. It means that Harry Hayward's ghost has returned to see that you do it.

This was said in a slow, hesitating man ner, as if the speaker had been rehearsing his part, but feared lest he should forgehis lines. "Say, Doyle," he called; "Doyle, where are you? Stick up your hand. I can't se but how do you do?"

All this was with an air of bravado which showed that the man had his nerves under a most wonderful control. "Say, Clemens," called Hayward to his ex-barber, "did you get those tickets You

"Ouch, that hurts!" said Hayward as the strap was drawn taut around his arms. As Deputy Megarden was putting the noose around his neck, Hayward she evidences that he was somewhat fastidious n the manner of execution. "Say, doesn't the knot want to go under

Although the gallows creaked and groaned and the rope stretch-ed under the heavy strain, still it did not give way, but held Hayward clear of the floor. Drs. Burton and Holme, watches in hand and fingers on the pulse, counted the pulsations that indicated that the life of the murderer was fast passing away. The drop fell at 2:08 o' clock, and for thirteen minutes the straps were left upon the body. They were then removed and at 2:45 Drs. Burton and Holme pronounced Hayward dead. Death was instantaneous. Was a Degenerate.

Louisville Republicans Made a Narrow Escape.

Eminence, Ky., December 11.-Thirty nots were fired upon a train load of Louisville republicans at this place last night as they were returning from the inauguration of Governor Bradley. All the windows in the last car of the long train, which left Frankfort at 7:30 p. m., were shot out and bullets tore into splinters much of the woodwork in the coach. There were several ladies in the coach and the excitement was intense. At the first volley everybody lay flat on the floor. The firing continued rapidly. The train was just slow ing up at Eminence and in a moment it to a standstill. Three men were see along the track and as the train started up again about ten more shots were fired through the windows. Fortunately only one person was hurt. One man's neck was out by the heavy pieces of glass that flew in all directions through the cur. Many nembers of the Garfield Club, of Louisville rere in the coach. A SEMINARY BURNED

The Little Orphans Were Marched Out in Good Order

AND NO LIVES WERE LOST

Heavy Loss by the Flames in a Milwaukee Saburb.

A LAMP WAS CARELESSLY KNOCKED OVER

By a Pressman in a Printing Establishment and the High Winds Fanned the Flames.

Milwaukee, Wis., December 11 .- A large fire is raging in the suburbs of St. Frances. The St. Amelianus Orphan asylum was completely destroyed. The wind is blowing a gale and all communication by wire is interrupted. Close to the asylum are the chapel, the printing office and a barn, which are built in the shape of a triangle. The fire started in the printing office at 6 o'clock. All employes had stopped work and the pressman, Chris Fuhrmann, accidentally knocked over a lamp which exploded. He tried to extinguish the fire by throwing clothes on it, but the same instant the door was thrown open by the storm, while the draft carried the flames to the ceiling which the next moment was on fire. The pressman rushed out of the building and called for help, but as there is no fire department at St. Frances the flames ate their way to other parts of the building. In the asylum there were 192 boys, ranging in age from three to fifteen. They all marched out in good order and no one was hurt. As there was no fire apparatus a bucket brigade was formed and help asked from this city. Engine companies 8 and 10 were ordered to the scene of the fire, but they were absolutely powerless. The building with all its contents burned to the ground and the firemen directed their efforts to save the seminary and other adjoining buildings. At 11:30 p. m. the fire was under control. The firemen succeeded in preventing the flames from spreading to the seminary. The asylum is completely destroyed. The loss will amount to $50,000 and is fully covered by insurance. As soon as possible the building will be re-erected. THERE'S NOTHING IN IT.

Same Old Rumor That the Southern Had Bought the Northeastern. New Orleans, December 11.—The story that the Southern rallway has purchased the Northeastern railway and thus grentra. e into New Orleans is an old and contains little of truth. It was and contains little of truth, it was said the Illinois Central is a party to the scheme and would take the Alebam ap-Vicksburg, extending from Viethous ap-vicksburg, and the Vicksburg, Shreve, a and Pacific, extending from Vicksburg to Shreveport, as their part of the deal. Thus the Queen and Crescent system would be dismembered. The Southern already controls the Cincinnati Southern and the Alabama Great Southern, which makes Meridian their southern terminus. If they could purchase the Northeastern it would could purchase the Northeastern it we be a valuable addition to their property. likely to part with it. The Queen and Crescent would sell their three roads if of the Northeastern alone would depreciate the value of their other roads, hence the story sent out recently that the Southern has bought the Northeastern may be set down as the mere repetition of an mor. Meanwhile the Northeastern is making arrangements to utilize the Spanish Fort road, which they own, and by this means they will land their passengers on Canal street. FRIENDLY TO BOTH.

The President Did Not Kill Anything

The Violet successfully weathered the gale, but the president's party has done no shooting today. There is every indication that tomorrow will be an ideal day for duck shooting. The plans of the president have been somewhat changed, he having decided not to leave Hatteras until Friday, arriving n Norfolk Sunday and reaching Wash ton early Monday morning.

Mrs. Colt's Petition Dismissed.

Providence, R. I., December II.—The Colt case was called this morning. Attorney Ripley, Mrs. Colt's counsel, appeared before Judge Stines in the appellate division of the supreme court, and moved for the dismissal of the lady's petition for divorce. In seconding the motion Mr. Colwell, attorney for Colonel Cole, read a letter from his client in which he said that, despite the statements of some newspapers, his suit against Mr. Van Alen did not reflect upon Mrs. Colt's conduct in any way. The notion for discontinuance was then ed. The attorneys in the case said the af-lair was now all over and there was noth-

Atlanta Will Soon Have Another Big Banking House.

CALLED THE THIRD NATIONAL

Mr. Frank Hawkins Will Be President of the New Institution.

MR. J. A. M'CORD TO BE THE CASHIER

The New Bank Will Have a Capital of $200,000 and Will Begin Business by January 15th.

Atlanta is soon to have a new national bank, to be known as the Third Nationa Bank of Atlanta.

Compliance with the national bank laws will be made at once by the incorporators and the bank will open not later than January 15th.

Among the corporators are Frank Hawkins, Jr., of Winona, Miss.; Louis Wellhouse, Thomas A. Erwin, H. M. Atkinson, Joseph A. McCord, H. Y. McCord, A. P. Morgan and E. E. Rosser, and the stockholders are many of Atlanta's best known and most influential citizens.

Mr. Frank Hawkins, of Winona, Miss., is to be president of the bank. He has put $75,000 into the enterprise and is the leading stockholder.

Mr. J. A. McCord will be cashier of the new national bank and Mr. T. A. Erwin will be assistant cashier. The capital stock will be $200,000.

ne of the stockholders have been at work for some time getting the scheme in shape for planting it on a solid foundation. They declare that this is good territory for another national bank and say that they will start out in a field that will afford them ample business. Atlanta's financial interests have grown to such an extent they claim as to warrant the establishment of another large banking house on this scale.

They have already applied for the charter of the new bank and will within the next few days have everything in condition to start the business of the new enterprise.

Mr. Hawkins is a well known capitalist from Mississippi and is an experienced banker. Mr. McCord and Mr. Erwin, the cashiers, are too well known to the people of Atlanta as eapable and experienced bankers for any reference to their ability. It is probable that the new bank will be established in the building on the corner pled by the Atlanta Home Insurance Company. This, however, is not vouched for by the men who are moving in the step toward the speedy organization of the new enterprise

The Atlanta Trust and Banking Company will not be affected in the slightest way by the organization of this bank ex cept that the withdrawal of Cashier Mc-Cord and Assistant Cashier Erwin will dause the election of other officers to manage the affairs of the bank.

The promoters of the new bank have The followctively though quietly at work for tr or six months past, Mr. J. A. Mc-Amount, the efficient cashier of the Atlanta Trust and Banking Company, has been one of the most active workers in the new organization. There has been no regular meeting of the incorporators, but it is understood who the officers will be and the management will be pretty much as Those interested in the new enterprise have canvassed among a few of the capi-talists and wholesale merchants for subscriptions to stock.

"We will open up by January 15th, I trust," said Mr. McCord last night, "We have applied for the right to organize and I understand that right has been given us We will get the bonds and proceed to busiss as soon as possible. We have complied with all the provisions of the na tional banking act so far, and will be ready work on the date stated, I believe,

"We believe that there is ample field here for another national bank. There is only one here, you know, and it has been our opinion that another could be made to pay. As to who the others officers of the bank will be, besides Mr. Hawkins, Mr. Erwin and myself, I cannot say. Those details will come in later.

"I cannot say where we will be located. We have not completed any renting arrangements and I should not care to say what we have in view." It has been known for some time that the new bank was in prospect. The men of finance of the city have heard of the active work of the promoters, but knew nothing definite. The incorporators proceeded with great discretion and made their object known only to those with whom they had dealings. The news will come in the nature of a big surprise to Atticks made the great race for the senate in Delaware last winter and kept up a deadlock for many weeks. Henry A. Atticks has done his party lasting harm, but that is right from a democratic standpoint. leading party men of the state have publicly protested against further recogniz-ing him as a republican."

BIG DIAMOND STEAL.

FREEMAN'S JEWELRY STORE ROBBED OF VALUABLES.

A Man Under Arrest Suspected of the Crime, but the Officers Refuse To Say Who He Is.

It seems that thieves made a big haul of ewelry yesterday.

It is said that one of the Whitehall street jewelry stores was robbed of a large amount of jewelry and diamonds. The amount could not be learned last night. The theft was kept in the dark, but it is certain that a big haul was made.

A man, whose name could not be learned, was arrested some time last night and carried to police headquarters. He was placed under guard in the office of the chief of detectives and no one was allowed to see him.

The officers declined to give the name of the man under arrest or to give the par-ticulars of the robbery, but the man is suspected of stealing the jewelry. He was arrested by one of the city detectives and was guarded all ngiht.

The object for so much secrecy about the arrest and the robbery is not apparent, but it is said that others are suspected of complicity in the haul of valuables. It seems that a large number of diamonds were stolen by the thieves. Chief Wright was asked about the matter last night. He said that he knew noth ing of it, having been at home sick during the day. Chief Connolly said that he did not renember the name of the man under arrest. He said that the case was in the hands of the detectives. When questioned he admit ted that there had been a big haul of jewelry and diamonds, but said that he did not know how much.

The man under arrest was placed in the detectives office without a charge being made against him. His name was not given to the station house keepers to be dccketed. The officers made every effort to prevent the arrest and robbery from be-

WAS FLEECED

Short Change Artists at Work at the Exposition Yesterday.

THE BOLD GAME OF CROOKS

Wealthy South Carolinian Skinned by Four Nicely Dressed Individuals in the Forestry Building.

Four short change sharpers got in their work at the exposition yesterday. That number of individuals cleverly fleeced at least one unsuspecting victim.

As a result of the little operation three men are locked up at police headquarters suspected of being the individuals who worked the game. The men were pointed out by the victim as being three of the quartet who fleeced him, but the officers are not certain that the identity of the men has been established by the victim.

The members under arrest claim to be members of a party of Brooklynites, stating that they arrived in the city on a special car a day or two ago. They indignantly deny any connection with the short change game, and say that the man who pointed them out is simply mistaken in their identity. The men are all well dressed and bear every appearance of being

The case was turned over to the de tectives, and the latter were undecided about holding the three men. The victim of the game thinks that he recognized the three men as the ones who worked him, but it is likely that the men will be released for the want of evidence.

Yesterday Captain Richard Heatherton wealthy a wealthy mill owner of Plantersville, S. C., took in the exposition. While in the forestry building he was approached by a well-dressed man who he thought was an attache of an exhibit. The stranger made himself agreeable, and proposed to show the captain through the building. The latter was alone and did not suspect that his companion had any designs on him. walking about awhile conversing pleasantly, the accommodating man in charge of the South Carolinian was approached by a man who greeted him cordially. Presently two more men came up, the four greeting each other. All were introduced to the victim of the scheme One of the newcomers volunteered the information that he did not intend to return home but intended to make a remittance to that place, at the same time asksupposed exhibitor if he could exchange some large amount bills for an equal amount in small change, stating that he did not want to put so many small bills in a letter.

The exhibitor, of course, had no bills of large denomination, and told his friend that he could not accommodate him, at the moment turning to the South Carothe gentleman by exchanging two twenties for fives and tens. The mill owner did not suspect the scheme to fleece him and he obligingly drew forth his wallet and handed the man a $20 bill, receiving for it four $5 bills. The $5 bills were placed in the South Carolinian's hand but picked up in an instant to be counted again, th short change man stating that he wanted to make no mistake. After recounting the four fives the money was again handed Captain Heatherton, who thought that he doubled up the fives and put them in his pocket, but subsequent investigation con-vinced him to the contrary. While he was earnestly entertained by three of the men the fourth quickly took the four fives from his hand and placed four $1 bills in Captain Heatherton's hand. Captain Heatherton doubled up the four ones and did not suspect that he had been given short change until two or three minutes later, when he became aroused by the remarkable quick time his newfound friends deserted him, all having departed abruptly. Examining his money the captain found that he had been fleeced to the extent of $16, being given four ones instead of four fives. He then reported his Jennnings detailed officers on the case. The South Carolinian went with the officers and on the Midway pointed out three n en who he thought were the parties who robbed him.

Detectives Ivy and Looney had charge It is probable that the men arrested will be released.

BIG HAUL LAST NIGHT.

THIEVES AT WORK AT THE DEPOT.

Large Amount of Money and Valuables Stolen from Four Men at the Carshed Last Night.

Pickpockets got in their work at union depot last night. Four men were robbed of their money and watches. About $250 in cash was stolen from the victims. The depot proved to be a rich field for the crcoks, as it has been since the exposition opened. Many citizens and visitors have been robbed at the depot while waiting for the trains or standing in the crowds looking for incomers. Last night's record will probably result in the place being better patrolled. seems that the crowd about the depot up to 12 o'clock last night was large and the umber of detectives small. At least that is what the victims of the thieves think.

One man lost $108 in cash. Another lost his wallet and contents and two of the four victims lost watches. The haul of the thieves will probably amount to nearly $400. The depot has been the bonanza of the thieves and visitor after visitor has written the police after returning home, telling of some robbery or loss of a diamond stud, watch or other jewelry.

TOBACCO CULTURE IN ALABAMA Experiments Have Shown That It

Can Be Made a Success. Auburn, Ala., December 11 .- (Special.) The land owners in this vicinity are much interested in the experiments that President Smith, of the Atlanta and West Point railroad, purposes to make in the cultiva-tion of tobacco along the line of this road at an early day. The experimental work that has been done in this industry at the Alabama experiment station has demonstrated that this plant can be made a suc cess in this state, and it is gratifying to know that this important agricultural in-dustry is to be followed by so strong a corporation as the Atlanta and West Point railroad.

Colonel Bondurant, professor of agri culture and agriculturist of the experiment station of the Agricultural and Mechani-cal college here, has had under advisement for some time an offer from the govern-ment of Victoria, Australia, through its minister of agriculture at Melbourne, to minister of agriculture at Melbourne, to engage in agricultural instruction and lectures to the large number of agricultural schools and farmers' institutes that are established and conducted by the government in that colony. In addition he will have charge of a number of experiments that will be conducted in different parts of the colony. He will be expected to give much attention to the cultivation of the tobacco plan, as the government of Victoria wishes to introduce this new industry pects to accept this offer, and will prepare to leave for Australia as early as he can after the 1st of January.

SUIT AGAINST OPELIKA

Brought by Mr. John Colvin, of Atlanta. Opelika, Ala., December 11.—(Special.)— The mayor and aldermen of Opelika have been mandamused to appear before the United States court in Montgomery on the 18th instant to show cause why they should not assess and collect a tax to settle a judgment and costs recovered against the district of Opelika in the United States court by John A. Colvin, of Atlanta, Ga. The amount of the judgment and costs is nearly $9,000. Over twenty years ago the city of Opelika voted $25,000 subscription to the East Alabama railway and the same amount to the Savannah and Memphis railroad, and bonds were issued and negotiated, mostly to New York parties. There has been considerable litigation resulting from the issuance of these bonds, n the United States court and one council came near being imprisoned for failure to assess and collect a sufficient amount of tax to settle one judgment. Finally the charter of the city was abolished and a lebt-paying commissioner appointed to compromise and settle this indebtedness. The interest at the time amounted to as much as the principal, which made the whole amount about $100,000. The commission succeeded in compromising and set-tling most of the bonds at less than 15 cents on the dollar. Colvin and a few others refused to compromise, however and the result is the suit now pending in the United States court.

WAR SHIP ENDANGERED. Cincinnati's Coal Bunkers Were Ablaze. Jacksonville, Fla., December 11.-A special to The Times-Union from Key West,

Yesterday about 2:30 p. m. smoke was discovered issuing from the coal bunkers next to the magazine on board the United States ship Cincinnati. The bunkers had not been opened in three months and the fire was from spontaneous combustion. When discovered the fire had so far progressed as to have the walls between the bunkers and the magazine red hot. The wooden casings where the fixed ammunition was inclosed had been burned away. As soon as the alarm was given every man was at his post and the mazazine flooded, and the danger was soon averted. A few moments more and the magazine would have exploded. The coolness of Captain Johnson and his officers and the discipline of the crew averted what might have been one of the most serious calamities that has ever happened on board an American man of war. In consequence of the heavy norther from yesterday noon until this morning no communication was had with the shore to report the accident.

Tennessee's Board of Examiners and Mandamus Will Be Applied For. Nashville, Tenn., December II.—(Special.)
A petition for a writ of mandamus will be nade before Judge Claude Waller, of the econd circui court, tomorrow by attoracys representing the state board of examiners, which is composed of the governor, treasurer and secretary of state. The defendants will be Comptroller Harris and the members of the board of assessors and equalizers. The examiners, some weeks ago, disapproved and set aside the railroad assessments because the assessors had not taken the proof required by law. The examiners directed the assessors to take this proof and amend and revise their assessments, but they and the comptroller have refused to receive the books and declined to go over the work. So mandamus proceedings were decided on and the bill will be filed tomorrow.

One of the most unique as well as the most attractive exhibits to be found on the exposition grounds is that of Louis Mazade & Co., of Paris, with headquarters in the French capital, No. 3 Rue Vineuse, and 70½ Whitehall street, Atlanta, Ga. In Paris Monsieur Marius Moulin is the director of the establishment, while here in Atlanta Monsieur Louis Mazade has its entire keeping in his hands.

Those who have visited the French section could not easily have passed by this wonderfully pretty display of hair goods without some words of praise relative to its splendor. One great reason why it attracts the eye is that there is not another exhibit of this kind in this special line to be found within the entire exposition and very naturally this enterprising firm deserve all the praise that is being bestowed upon them and not altogether for the reason that theirs is the exclusive exhibit in the very important enterprise of the manufacture of all kinds of hair goods, perfumes and many kinds of toilet articles.

ABOUT MACON'S RECORDER

Ill Feeling Between the Officers No More—Appointment of a Justice. Other News of Macon.

Macon, Ga., December 11 .- (Special.)-The breach between Judge Freeman, city recorder, and the chairman of the police commission, Mr. Dunlop, was patched up this morning by Captain Dunlop denying that he made the disrespectful remarks about the recorder attributed to him by Commissioner Henderson, and Judge Freeman withdrawing his remarks made at the council meeting last night.

Mr. Henderson now has the bag to hold. He admits that he misquoted Captain Dun-lop to Judge Freeman and admits he said what the recorder based his caustic remarks on. Judge Freeman announces that he is satisfied, and the matter now rests between Commissioners Dunlop and Henderson on a question of veracity. It is not believed that the matter will be carried any further, as all the parties con-cerned held a conference this morning that is said to have been perfectly free from harsh words.

The Grand Jury.

The grand jury this morning turned in their presentments to the superior court. According to the construction some authorities put on the law it is the duty of the grand jury sitting after January of each year to elect members to fill vacancies on the board. If this is the case all of the present members of the road commission are illegally elected if their election took lace prior to January 1st of any year.

NO PROSECUTOR APPEARED

The Prisoner Was Released and Is Now Putting Distance Between Himself and Philyau.

Athens, Ga., December 11.-(Special.)-John T. Alexander, the Mississippi man who ran away with Mrs. J. D. Philyau, was given his committal trial this morning by Judge J. F. Foster. Philyau didn't appear to prosecute the charge of adultery against Alexander, and Judge Foster dismissed the case.

Sheriff Wier then turned him loose, as the telegrams instructing him to hold Alexander were signed by private parties and no requisition papers had yet reached Governor Atkinson, although the telegram stated they had been sent from Mississippi last Sunday.

Alexander was a happy man when he got out of jail. He said he was sorry for what he had done and would never get into trouble again. Is he going back to Mississippi? Well, not much of it. He struck out in the opposite direction, and from his remarks it would appear that he intended putting just as much distance between him and Mississippi as possible. That Council Investigation.

That investigation by a committee of council of the charges of trading in the office of clerk by Aldermen Rhodes and Arnold promises to be lively yet. The committee appointed to investigate the charges was originally Alderman Yancey, Methvin and Carithers. Alderman Yancey had to go to Atlanta and moved to substi-tute Mayor O'Farrell on the committee That raised objection and on the motion the yeas were Yancey, Carithers and Meth-vin, and the nays were Rhodes, Arnold and Cheney. That tied the vote and necessitated the mayor passing upon the question of putting himself on the committee, and after some discussion had taken place, he said: "I'll sit on the committee in justice to myself and this coun-

The committee has announced a meeting for tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the council chamber and summoned the parties interested to be present. It does not seem just now as if they will be present.

In fact it is stated on authority on the streets that the two aldermen involved will refuse to submit to an investigation by the committee, but will demand a full and complete investigation by the entire coun-cil and also demand that the meeting be public and that the taxpayers of Athens be urged to be present on that occasion.

This matter has caused a great deal of comment on the part of the people, who express various opinions concerning it. It believed by many who are in po of the facts of the case that a great deal of unnecessary fuss has been made about this matter and that while the existing state of affairs are not the most desirable that the whole matter is more of a private than a municipal nature and that ever error has been committed the taxpayers have lost nothing thereby publicity given to the reports and charges is such ,however, as to demand a full in-vestigation of the affair, which will be done in one way or the other

To Take a Big Block of Stock Conditionally-Several Other New Manufactories Contemplated.

Rome, Ga., December 11 .- (Special.) - Quite a ripple was caused in commercial circles Smith Whaley to take $400,000 additional capital stock in the Trainer mills provided that the stockholdrs would increase the stock to an even million. He was wired Monday to come at once to look over the ground, being employed by the Messrs. Trainer, of Chester Pa., who are the leading spirits in the new venture. He arrived yesterday and went out to the Rounsaville property, where the mills are to be loeated. He comes from Columbia, S. C., and is a skilled architect and will have the supervision of the buildings. "It is one of the finest mill sites I ever saw," he said in the presence of a party of gentlemen this morning, "and if they will increase the stock to one million I will take care of the additional $400,000. Instead of a 30,000 spindle mill there they ought to build a mill of 100,000 spindles. I never saw a finer place for a mill, and I think that the prospects are exceedingly bright."

He was enthusiastic over the matter is altogether probable that the capttal stock of $600,000, which has been already raised will be increased and that this mill will eclipse in extent and cost of investment the big Massachusetts mills now nearly completed.

Romans Jubilant.

The people of Rome were already feeling good but this proposition made them jubi-lant and there seems to be little doubt that the plans for the Pennsylvania mills when drawn will eclipse anything heretofore located in the state by outside capital. The people of Rome are largely in-terested in the new mills and will, of course, offer every encouragement to assist in augmenting the extent of its oper-

Charter Secured.

This morning the charter for the new bank was published, having been secured yesterday by Messrs. W. P. Simpson, J. A. Glover and C. A. Hight. It sets forth that the name is to be the "Exchange Bank of Rome," and that its capital stock is to be $50,000 in shares of $100 each, and that $25,000 of the stock has been paid in already.

that $25,000 of the stock has been paid in already.

The charter will be advertised once a week for four weeks, when the bank will be formally opened, about January 15th, and officers elected. It will be located in the block where the Simpson Grocery Company is now located, on Broad street, near the Merchants' bank.

The gentlemen at the head of the bank are leading business men and capitalists, and are familiar with the workings of such institutions, having been largely interested in banking affairs here.

This will give Rome three good banks, all with ample capital and officered by the best financiers in the city.

The Race for Member of the Board of Water Commissioners Is Getting Warm. The bridge committee met yesterday af ternoon with Mr. Bell chairman, and Mr. Welch, of the second, and Mr. Welch, of the fifth, present. A letter from the legal department of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railway, touching the proposed bridge on Jones avenue, over the tracks, was in Mr. Bell's hands when he called the meeting to order and it was that letter which induced the call of the meeting. The letter informed Mr. Bell that there were legal obstacles or objections to the construction of a new bridge on the avenue, and that the plans, as far as known, were acceptable. A paragraph in the letter expressed a desire for permission for the chief engineer of the road to make a more thorough study of the plans. It has been known for quite awhile, in fact since the engineer of the road first investigated the plans, that some changes would be required when work actually began. The new bridge will be as fine and substantial a structure as the one on Broad street, and since the plans have been drawn it has been ascertained that the bridge will have to be longer than the one which now spans the chasm. There will be something like ten feet difference in the lengths of the two bridges. It has been ascertained that the walls on both sides are not as solid and substantial as they might be, and as they have to be torn away it was decided to widen the chasm, which, of course, makes the bridge longer than it now is.

Now that every obstacle has practically been wiped out Mr. Bell will at the next meeting of the general council ask for legislation necessary to authorize advertising for bids. The request will be granted and by the first meeting in January next the contract may be awarded. The Water Board Election. The water board vacancies which will be filled at the meeting of the general coun-cil next Monday now seem disposed to produce a lively contest. The retiring members are in the third and fourth wards and both of them, Mr. Zack H. Smith and Mr. Howell C. Erwin are candidates for re-election.

The position is one of no pay of any consequence and yet there are quite a number of citizens who are anxious to qualify as a member of the board. In the third ward there are two candidates and in the fourth three candidates are in the race.

Mr. Smith has been a member of the water board from the third ward since he went out of the general council several years ago. He has never thought of abandoning the position, and now that he has opposition in the race he will work the more vigorously to retain it. Mr. J. C. P. Johnson, who was engineer at the county courthouse a long time is in the race and is making it lively for Mr. Smith.

Mr. Howell C. Erwin, of the fourth ward, has been a member of the board three terms and has expressed a desire to retain the chair he has so well and long filled. But Mr. Erwin has a fight on his hands and will win only after he has whipped it. Mr. Henry Garrett, at the Richmond and Danville shops, wants the place, and is putting up a sharp, hard fight for it. Mr. W. D. Smith, the Decatur street grocer, has entered the race too, and is making calls upon the members of the general con The contest promises to become lively before the council meets Monday.

The Collection Stopped. The collection of water bills for the onth closed night before last and the waterworks office, as well as the tax col-lector's office was kept open till after 10 o'clock, to accommodate the water consumers.

The books when consolidated yesterday showed that there had been an unusually large response from the water consumers and that the collections had never been heavier before. On the last day over $49,000 were paid in and that was a record breaker.

To Change the Ward Doctors.

Mr. Weich, of the fifth, who presented the ordinance doing away with the seven ward physicians and substituting two who would be required to give their entire time to the pauper patients of the city, has produced a great deal of talk.

It has been discussed quite freely among the members of the general council, and while some favor it other members of the general council are opposed to it. Some of the ward physicians have been heard to adprove the plan and in doing so say that a physician who undertakes to treat a pau-per will find that each call will require re time and patience than does a simi lar call require from a pay patient.

The Tax Committee To Meet. The tax committee will meet this afteroon, and among other things will take up that section of the tax ordinance referring to street fakirs. Some of the peddlers and fakirs are kicking because the chief of police has moved them and are threatening to sue the city. The tax committee may, in taking up the matter rescind that paragraph allowing a license of any kind on the streets.

ATTACKED THE REICHSTAG.

Herr Richster Criticized the Government and the Sugar Tax.

Berlin, December 10.—Herr Richter, rad-ical, made a violent attack upon the bud-get in the reichtag today and was especially evere in his criticisms of the demands of the government for colonial purposes and the frequency with which expeditions for the frequency with which expeditions for colonial aggrandizement, costing large sums of money, were organized. He then called attention to the new sugar law, which, he said, meant 50,000,000 marks increased burden to the German nation. He felt convinced that the government sugar measures. vinced that the government sugar measures were not directed against America and expressed his approval of the statement made by Baron Marschall von Bleberstein, min-ister of foreign affairs, yesterday concern-ing the tariff situation between Germany and the United States.

"But," he said, "if Germany should in-crease the bounty on sugar, America may increase the sur-tax. Therefore, abolish the bounty, avoid the sur-tax and give the nation cheap sugar."

In regard to the insurance question, he declared that German companies were be-ginning to complain ct the new ordinances, It would be better, in his judgment, to made the administration of insurance affairs an imperial and not a Prussian con-cern and at the same time reform the sys-tem. He was not satisfied, he said, that its twenty-fifth anniversary saw the empire better and greater than it was at its founda-tion. "It is the emipre," he declared, "that is impoverishing the people."

Chancellor von Hohenlohe, whose voice was so hoarse as to be hardly audible, was so hoarse as to be hardly audible, read an answer drafted by Dr. Von Boetticher, imperial minister of the interior, to Herr von Kardorff's accusation that the ministers were engaged in quarrels between themselves. This charge, the chancellor declared, was entirely without foundation in fact. His programme, he said, was still the same as that he had announced upon assuming the office of chancellor of the empire.

These annual debates which occur the week before Christmas holidays are looked forward to with great pleasure by the pupils of the Boys' High school. Great preparations are made and it is always an occasion of interest among the boys.

Heretofore the debates have been held at Browning hall in the Girls' High school. but this year's exercises will be held in the Young Men's Christian Association building owing to the large crowd that

There are in the Boys' High school 200 boys. Of this number about forty will be this year's graduates. The others will remain in the school from two to three years longer. All the lower grades will have representatives in this annual prize debate and it is a great occasion for them. The boy that takes the medal in the lower classes will be recognized as one of the leaders of the school, which is no small honor for one of the freshmen. The Alciphronian Literary and Debating Society has been in existence for several years. It has proved to be one of the most important branches in the school. There have been many graduates and prominent members of this society who have taken an important and high stand in the literary circles in the colleges due to the training they received from the society. This society is what was formerly called the Nean-ian Literary and Debating Society. Its name has been changed within the last four years to the Alciphronian Literary and Debating Society.

Since the Boys' High school has been under the direction of Professor W. M. Slaton it has prospered and has become one of the recognized high schools of the south. Its curriculum is of the highest order and since it has been under his direction it has not only increased in numbers but has been improved in many branches of study. The annual debate is the most interesting entertainment for the programme. The sub-jects discussed have always been of great importance and have been dealt with in a manner remarkable for boys of the ages of the young debaters. The prizes that are offered for the different features on the programme are for the best debater in first grade, for best debater in second grade, for best debater in whole school and for best declaimer in whole school. The best debater is to be given a gold medal, the decision to be made by three competent judges to be announced later. There will be a gold medal given annually by Mr. Charles Crankshaw, the popular jeweler, for the best debater in the school. Maier & Berkele will give a gold medal for this special occasion to the best de-claimer in the whole school. Chattanooga Captured the Exposition with Her Delegation.

Citizens from Moccasin Bend Bring Fraternal Greetings.

ADDRESS OF MAYOR OCHS

Every Organization of Chattanooga Was Represented Yesterday.

THE NEW COLUMBIAN BELL WAS RUNG

After the Exercises in the Auditorium the Delegation Lunched as the Guests of Mayor King.

Chattanooga sent several thousand citizens and soldiers to the exposition yester-

The city of Chattanooga was well repre sented. The general council, headed by Mayor Ochs: the Chamber of Commerce the Young Men's Rusiness League, the public schools and many business and laor organizations had representatives on the grounds. With the party came the military organizations of the city.

The crowds began to pour into the city at an early hour yesterday morning and the trains over both the Western and Atlantic and Southern railway were loaded with the excursionists.

The three specials over the Western and Atlantic brought 2,000 people and the long trains had all that the cars could possibly hold. The Chattanoogans left the Flucky City at 1 o'clock yesterday morning. The regular train leaving at that hour had several extra coaches attached, but these were overloaded long before the hour for the train to leave. Three specials were made up and even then the cars were crowded. the Southern and the travel from Chattanoora to Atlanta was very heavy, indeed. Parade of the Soldiers.

When the train bearing the military ar rived the second battalion filed out of the carshed and marched up Pryor street to the Aragon hotel. The soldiers numbered 300 men and made a handsome appearance. The battalion is composed of the best young men of Chattanooga and it would be a matter to find a handsomer lot of and though larger bodies of troops have frequently been in the city, none have made a better display than did Chatta-

The column was formed at 9 o'clock in ed on Ellis and Peachtree streets and rched back down Peachtree and Pryor to the terminal of the Southern railway The parade was headed by Spence's band. the auditorium was a representative one. It was enthusiastic as well, and as the warm words of welcome fell from the lips of President Collier he was liberally applauded.

President Collier was introduced and he was given a cordial reception by his audience. Mr. Collier said he appreciated the manner in which Chattanooga had honored the exposition. It was one Southern city that had sent one of the largest delegations and the number of the party was much larger than some of the state delegations. Chattanooga, said he, had done many things that were to be commended. She was a city known far and wide as a city of plucky and enterprising citizens. The exposition, said Mr. Collier, was to be congratulated on having within its gates a delegation so distinguished as the one that had come from Moccasin Bend.

Atlanta's Welcome.

Atlanta has always loved Chattanooga and the stanch yeomanry who have builded the city on the banks of the Tennessee river. There has always been a feeling of friendship between the two cities and this bond of fellowship was made stronger yesterday.

The official welcome to Chattanooga from Atlanta was delivered by Mayor Porter King. Mr. King told of the good fellowship and friendship that existed between the two cities. He said it was pleasant, indeed, to shake the hand of Mayor Ochs and was a very happy duty to open the gates of Atlanta to Chattanooga's army.

Atlanta, said Mr. King, was fortunate in ecuring the exposition and Chattanooga, he thought, was fortunate in being Atlanta's neighbor, for Chattanooga had been greatly benefited by the exposition and nearly every delegation that had visited Atlanta had stopped over in Chattanooga.

Mayor Ochs Responds. Mayor George W. Ochs, of Chattanooga, responded in behalf of his city to the welcome of Atlanta. Mayor Ochs was greeted with applause when he began to speak.

He said: "Atlanta displayed her usual tact and "Atlanta displayed her usual tact and opportuneness in choosing as her chief executive during her exposition period a real, live King to dispense her princely hospitality and to regale her guests with these regal welcomes, and when the marvelous achievements of this Aladdin-like city are fully comprehended no sovereign of any European dynasty can point to an imperial municipality within his domain where thrist, enterprise and performance can shed more luster on his crown than is diffused here where your 'King' reigns. Chattanooga today owes you her allegiance and as becomes patriotic and loyal subjects we shout with loud acclaim, 'Long live your 'King,' and may God prosper your city,' "Words are independent to the property of the contract o your "King," and may God prosper your city."

"Words are inadequate to express a proper appreciation of the amazing enterprise of Atlanta in successfully launching and in brilliantly conducting this magnin-cent exposition. It is an achievement that has appalled cities of ten times your wealth and population, and the greater glory lies in the brilliancy of its execution. As your largest neighbor, Chattanooga pays tribute to your triumph and ungrudgingly exalts your pre-eminence.

Results of the Exposition.

Results of the Exposition.

"Atlanta by this exposition has earned the gratitude of our entire nation, of our beloved south, and especially of my own city. The country, at large owes you a debt that can never be repaid. The hundred days of this exposition have been one hundred days of jubilee over a reunited country, a reconstructed nation. Sectional lines no longer divide this glorious union. The Cotton States and International exposition has thrown down the barriers, and the men of the north and the men of the south have here met on common ground; for weeks the most distinguished men of the north in all walks of life have come to this Mecca in one continuous pilgrimage and worshiped at the same shrine with their fellow-countrymen of the south; they have informed themselves of our resources; they have studied our institutions; they have witnessed the magical rehabilitation of our country; they have observed our wonderful strides, and they have discovered our unwavering and unfaltering patriotism. This personal contact and social intercourse have welded closer together in indissoluble bonds of amity and mutuality the people of our common country.

Homage to Atlanta.

Homage to Atlanta.

'The people of the south pay you homage. You have stimulated their enterprise, quickened the thought and life of the whole south, broadened our norizon and given an incomparable object lesson, not only to the world, but to our own people of our own capabilities, our own ple of our own capabilities, our own matchless resources, and our own poten

Chattanooga a Beneficiary.

"To my own city your work has been of especial value. Next to Atlanta Chattanooga has been the chief beneficiary. The thousands from the north whom you have attracted have come our way and tarried among us; there to witness another Atlanta, lesser perhaps in size today, but imbued with the same spirit, the same enterprise, the same intrepidity which have given you renown in two hemispheres. Chattanooga, like Atlanta, lay in ashes when the war closed. The whizzing bullet, the hurtling shell, the torch, the march of serried hosts left her a mass of embers; the smoke which shrouded Atlanta when horrid war had laid his devastating hand here, saw its shadow lifting above the desolated plain where once Chattanooga stood. But our people were not dismayed. Impoverished, but not disheartened, they built up the waste places, and today, beside the silvery waters of the Tennessee, is a bustling city of near 50,000 inhabitants, throbbing with life and energy, pulsating in every fiber in her friendly race with Atlanta for supremacy.

"All hail, Atlanta! All hall, Chattanooga! nta for supremacy. 'All hail, Atlanta! All hail, Chattanooga

Address of Mr. Andrews. Hon. Garnett Andrews, of Chattanooga was introduced by Mayor Ochs. Mr. Andrews is one of Chattanooga's most prominent men and has held several offices of high trust and honor. His address was well delivered and liberally applauded. He well delivered and liberally applauded. He said:

"What concerns Georgia is of interest likewise to Chattanooga. Georgians had much to do with its early settlement and development. The purchaser buying land there now will often run his title back to names familiar in Georgia history. The people and your own are homogeneous; largely of a kindred ancestry, and with like hopes and aspirations. The imaginary line of separate statehood is so near that some of our suburbs are Georgian; so neighborly, indeed, that before the Tennessee-Dortch law came with its registrations and certificates, Georgia used to vote with us liberally, it is said, in our elections. "Therefore, the development and success of this great exposition has been a subject of critical expectancy and observation at Chattanooga. Day by day we have seen monster trains poke their noses around the toe of Lookout mountain, or flash forth from the rocky sides of the Cumberland to straighten out their folds in our midst and disgorge thousands of bright-faced tourists southward bound; happy pilgrims to Atlanta. Upon the homeward trip most of these travelers have made short sojourns there to see the combined wonders of nature and art which surround us; Lookout mountain and its cable ways; Mission ridge and its superb boulevards; Chickamauga park, with its battle monuments; the spirit of an immortal history brooding over all. "You have not promised results; you have shown them. Man wants what he sees others get; but he will not invest in dreams. We possess in reserve all that the boom promised. But God gave it as an inheritance to be worked; not as a delusion for the debauchery of speculation. "Great old Georgia has been quick to see and act upon this truth, as your exposition demonstrates. Her cotton factories are evidence of it too; and I am told that the city of Augusta proposes to open an exposition of her looms in Chicago. "A hundred dollars worth of your goods sold in New England or the west is an advertisement instantly heeded and remembered."

"Chartanooga has gone far in this di-rection and already reaps a rich reward, Two of our works not only sell broadcast throughout the union, but are heavy ex-porters to foreign countries. Not long since the audience by Mayor Ochs.

Mr. Swaney said:

"The south, under the rapid diversification of crops, and the diversification of industries, is thrilling with new life. As this new prosperity comes to us it will bring no sweeter thought to me and to you, my countrymen, I am sure, than that it adds not only to the comfort and happiness of our neighbors, but that it makes grander the glory and deeper the majesty and more enduring the strength of the union which reigns supreme in our hearts.

"These prophetic words from an immortal Georgian find their fulfillment in this splendid exposition of southern products.

tal Georgian find the fulfillment in this splendid exposition of southern products. There is no state in the union that rejoices more in the success of your supendous undertaking than does Tennessee. The Volunteer State sends greeting of good will to the Empire State of the South and Joins in the universal benediction, 'Well done, good and faithful servant.'

Mayor of the Plucky City of Chattanooga, Who Spoke for His City Yesterday.

I heard Mr. Faxon, president of our chamber of commerce and cashier of the First National bank, remark that one of his customers, a Chattanooga manufactory, among its depositors that they had sent in checks on banks in fifteen different states saying that it was a fact of common occurrence.

"He ranked lies in three successive degrees of enormity—lies, damned lies and statistics.

"These are not new truths; but old truths seem new to those who neglect them. Neither am I speaking in a spirit of reproach at a people whose genius has worked such marvels of self-adaptation; been so masterful in the guidance of their states through momentous changes, and who are now, perhaps, for the first time prepared to put these principles to test. Commonplace though they may seem, they are the infallible secrets of power which have laid the hand of British commercial dominion on the world, and make Tennessee and Georgia pay daily and unwilling revenue to New England. Aggression is the same in commerce as in war; more subtle, but more far reaching and decisive. Is the southerner more untit for it than others? He unfit for any struggle that calls for every manly energy? This is a sort of family meeting, and I mean not to touch the pride of, others; but my faith in him is so unbounded that it would transcend the limits of good taste to proclaim it. Descended of the adventurous stock of armed merchants and colonists, who three hundred years ago sailed the unknown seas in ships of ten to forty tons; with cockboats swept the Spanish main and challenged the ice castles of the Arctic in search of passage to Cathay; descendants of the revolution; of the men who made even slavery ethical and romantic; men who called from ease and plenty, fought bitter destiny to a finish in bare feet and rags; and then regenerated a destroyed country by force of genius and endurance! Tell me they cannot succeed where others win?

"I say these things not with assumption but with diffidence: as a son of both states; born in one, living in the other, loving both. In the bosom of Georgia rest my parents and my grandparents. From its honest and sturdy people I have learned all that is best to know; with its youth I went to that fateful conflict from which but few of my beloved companions returned. Unfortunately for Tennessee, we have been too much engaged in fighting over who should hold the offices to make an effort to advertise our resources here or for the state to help us at home in our Centennial exposition. But in good time we propose to overcome all of these shortcomings and join the procession to stay. You must remember that Tennessee was not one of the original thirteen states, that she has been engaged in fighting your wars for you and devoted much of her best brain to the national government in the way of presidents and cabinet officers, and furnishing settlers for the great west, while Georgia, from the first, by its wise land laws, made phenomenal gains in population and wealth and won the title of the while Georgia, from the first, by its wise land laws, made phenomenal gains in population and wealth and won the title of the Empire State of the South. Tennessee is proud of the fact that many of her sons have aided you in building up your waste places since the war and won fortunes and fame for themselves, and glory for our state. You have reciprocated these benefits and sent us many of your best Georgians to develop our resources, and I may add that in every instance they have proved to be good citizens. Tennessee may do well to emulate your worthy efforts and heed the lesson taught by this exposition. Come to see us next year at our Centennial and see for yourselves what a generous rivalry between sister states can do."

Dress Parade in the Afternoon. Yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock the secand battalion of Chattanooga troops were reviewed by Major Fyffe, the commander reviewed by Majo of the battalion.

The parade was given on the plaza and was witnessed by a large crowd of spectators. The soidlers made a handsome appearance on the grounds and went through the various movements like clock work. Luncheon at the Club. At the conclusion of the exercises in the auditorium the delegations from Chattanoo-

Rang the Columbian Bell. One of the features of the celebration of Chattanooga day yesterday was the ringing of the new Columbian bell. Mayor Ochs announced just at the close f the exercises that the bell would be rung in honor of the day. A large crowd of visitors went from the auditorium to the place where the bell has been located The clear, sweet tones of the mammoth bell sounded out on the crisp air and immediately a tremendous and enthusiastic shout went up from three thousand throats.

The ringing of the bell attracted a large number of people and all joined in the applause and cheers that followed.

They March Through Atlanta Again After Thirty-One Years Pass.

FOUGHT UNDER J. E. JOHNSTON

Two Hundred of the Warriors Came from Tennessee Yesterday.

THEY WILL BE IN THE PARADE TODAY

A Gallant Band of Veterans, Who Fought for Atlanta Against the Invasion of Sherman.

"Johnnie Reb" took the town yesterday. Nearly two hundred warriors in gray tackets landed in Atlanta from Tennessee. Two handsome lads in gray uniforms with long disheveled black locks crowned with the glorious gray cap led the procession with drum and fife, and the picture was thrilling as the war-worn heroes tramped with bowed heads through the busy streets of splendid Atlanta of today. They were the same men who bared their breast before the thick shower of shot and shell from Sherman's legions and fought in the trenches around this city to save the Atlanta of thirty-one years ago.

And when they tumbled from the train yesterday afternoon at the union passenger station and "fell in" at the call of kettle drum and marched by the Kimball house the spasmodic shouts and cheers and rebel vells from the multitudes around told in no unmistakable way how Atlanta crowns their gray hairs with honor today.

There have been many parades and ostentatious demonstrations on the streets of Atlanta since the great exposition threw wide its gates to the admiring thousands who have flocked here from every quarter of the civilized world, but never has there been a scene enacted on the streets that called for more genuine enthusiasm than when the heroes who were driven from their stubborn stand to save Atlanta in the stormy days of '64 came back in their simple gray jeans jackets yesterday and smiled on Atlanta one time more-this time marching serenely and happily under the stars and stripes which was there target the last time they came here.

What a scene it was! The one-legged man who limped hastily along in seeming jealousy to get closer to the ample folds of the United States flag than his neighbor was the hero of the parade yesterday afternoon when the boys who followed Josnston and Hood tramped through the streets of Atlanta, once desolated and ruined by the

The old fellows seemed glad to get back to Atlanta once again-as glad to get back to it as they were to leave it the last time, perhaps, when the bullets from yankee muskets put them to flight. Thirty-one years ago these old soldiers were young men, fighting in the trenches. Today their heads are crowned in snowy wreaths of white Then their young boyish faces kindled with gratification and delight as they looked up to the dear old stars and bars waving from the pinnacles of the scene of battle. Today their wrinkled faces gleam with the same ecstacy and joy as they look up to the stars and stripes—the glorious old banner of free-dom—under whose folds they march. The veterans of Tennessee have come Reached Atlanta Early in the Morning and Were Met by the Special Committee.

The special train carrying Mayor Ochs and party rolled into the union station just before 8 o'clock yesterday morning and was met by a special committee from the general council.

Harman, chairman; Mr. Howell, Mr. Welch of the fifth, Mr. Day and Mr. Campbell and all were present when the train came in.

Mayor Ochs was introduced to the members of the committee and then the members of the committee were made acquainted with the members of the Chattanooga gen-eral council and city officers along with the mayor. The visitors had not breakfasted and were escorted to the Kimball, the Markham and the Aragon, the members of the special committee from Atlanta's gen-eral council separating to accompany them. An hour and a half later the visitors and the members of the committee were together and after watching the parade pass eft for the grounds. Mayor King and Mayor Ochs met before facing each other in the auditorium and conversed pleasantly for a few minutes. The entire party heard the exercises in the auditorium and then in groups went over the grounds. The members of the special committee rendered every possible attention to the visitors and left nothing undone that could be done for the entertainment and amusement of the members of the general council and city officials of Chattanooga.

They have allowed all the employes who could possibly be spared from the service of the railroad today to come to the exposition to participate in the pleasures of the day and to join their revelry with that of the men from Tennessee.

The Western and Atlantic, which is the only railroad owned by the state of Georgia, will demonstrate today the fact that it has fallen into safe hands in being leased by the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad. Since this railroad leased exercises in the auditorium, the presence the Western and Atlantic much has been done to make the property better than it was before. The roadbed has been put in the best of condition, the bridges have all been remodeled in iron structure and the equipment is as good as is to be found on any of the railroads in the south. Western and Atlantic day at the exposition will be quite a feature of today's general programme. All the employes and friendly patrons of the road will wear white satin badges today bearing the pcture of Colonel J. W. It will be a notable parade that is to be given today by the men from the hills of

Tennessee One of the greatest features of the pa rade will be the body of confederate veterans-sure enough soldiers-who will be in line just as they used to march with their muskets on their shoulders and their gray jackets on their backs, their trousers legs stuck in their rude leggings The boys in gray will be cheered all down the lines and will be the heroes of the day.

Besides these there will be many com panies of the Tennesse national guard here, coming from Nashville, Chattanooga and other towns throughout the state

The parade will form at 10 o'clock this norning and will escort the lieutenan governor of Tennessee, Governor Atkinson, President J. W. Thomas, of the Tennessee centennial exposition and the Tennessee commissioners to the exposition grounds. The regular programme of the day will begin in the auditorium at 11 o'clock sharp. There will be speeches by President

MR. B. F. WILSON, Member Executive Committee Tennessee Centennial.

President Thomas, of the Nashvile exposition; Governor Atkinson, the lieutenant governor of Tennessee, Mayor King, of Atlanta; Mayor McCarthy, of Nashville, and Major Willis, of the Tennessee centennial exposition.

There will be a vast number of the promoters of the Tennessee centennial exposition here this morning, though but few of them had arrived last night. They are. for the most part, coming on the trains that left Nashville last night at 8 o'clock and will arrive in Atlanta this morning at 6:30.

Order of the Parade. Special Exercises To Be Held in the Auditorium Today, Commencing at 1 O'Clock.

La day will be celebrated at the ex-

Exercises will be held in the auditorium at 1 o'clock, and addresses will be made minent labor men. Many shops and manufacturing industrie will be closed today, and it is expected that a very large number of labor men will be present at the exercises. The presence of so many leading labor men in the city has created much interest in the celebra tion of the day, and a large and enthusias tic audience will fill the auditorium. tic audience will full the auditorium.

A large delegation of railroad men arrived last night. Among the different labor organizations that are in the city is the Track Foremen's Association, which arrived yesterday afternoon. The association held an interesting meeting last night at the headquarters of the Industrial Union, on Alabama street, at which Grand Master John F. Wilson, of the association, presided. Another special train from St. Louis, AFRICAN CONGRESS TOMORROW

Evans, chairman, has invited the gov ernor, the exposition directors and the mayor and general council to seats on the stage with the distinguished guests of the labor organizations. Mr. George W. Evans, chairman of the local committee, will preside and introduce the speakers. President Collier, of the exposition, will make an address of welcome and will be followed by Hon. Carroll D. Wright, chief of United States bureau of labor; Mr. John T. Wilson, grand master Track Foremen's Association; Mr. E. E. Clark, grand chief conductor, Order of Railway Conductors;

The Report Denied. President Collier, of the exposition, has received from several states the information that a report is being industriously circulated to the effect that a number of exhibits have been removed in advance of the close. There is not a word of truth in this, and Mr. Collier makes the following statement: 'To correct an erroneous impression, wish to say to the public that not a single exhibit has been removed from the exposition. The exposition will close finally and forever on December 31st. Until ther every exhibit will remain intact. So far as I know, there is no desire on the part of the exhibitors to remove their displays before that time. Certainly we will not permit any exhibit to be removed or in any way interfered with before the 1st of January, and until that date the exposition will be as complete as at any time since the opening."

COULD NOT BE FOUND.

THE CHATTANOOGA-McPHERSON GAME DID NOT MATERIALIZE.

The Manager Was Missing and the Grounds Were Rather Damp.

The game of football between the Chattanonga and Fort McPherson teams, which was to come off yesterday afternoon at the Buffalo Bill grounds, did not materialize and the failure of this exciting pigskin contest to take place can be told in a few words. A day or so ago Mr. R. A. Reese, the manager of the Chattanooga team, was sent as an advance agent to arrange all preliminaries, such as getting the grounds, etc. He arrived in the city and the Chat tanooga kickers followed him yesterday morning, expecting all would be well, but their manager could not be found. Their captain, Mr. L. M. Frix, made what arrangements he could and the teams proceeded to the grounds, when another obstacle confronted them. The grounds were in a more suitable condi ic contest than a gridinon battle, being about two-thirds covered by water from the recent rains. No sort of attempt had been made to remedy this defect and so the game was necessarily called off. The boys, however, proceeded to see the great show and analy themselves. They are a fine l enjoy themselves. They are a fine king set of fellows and would no doubt have put up a most interesting game for the soldier boys from the fort. It is a great pity that the contest was a failure through the part of bad management.

Augusta and Athens Meet Today. Although Thanksgiving is generally sidered as the day that brings to a the football season, there will nevertheless be an exhibition of that popular sport at the Buffalo Bill grounds today at 2 o'clock that will call out a large number of the lovers of the gridiron game, both from this city and Augusta.

lovers of the gridiron game, both from this city and Augusta.

The contest will be between two well trained elevens of the Augusta and Athens Young Men's Christian Associations. These two teams met in Augusta three weeks ago and put up a most intensely interesting exhibition of football playing; indeed, so well did the boys of both teams punch the pigskin that the result was a tie game.

The teams are composed of the junior members of their respective associations and have been practicing most enthusiastically for several weeks preparatory to today's battle. Today being Augusta day there will be legions of her people here and as football has recently become very popular in that city there will be a large number of admirers on the grounds when the game is called. One thing the Augustans pride themselves on when a baseball or football game is being played by their boys, and that is "rooting," and the rooters are all coming up today, so look out for a pandemonium din when the aforesaid rooters get in line. The Athenians know a thing or two in the rooting line themselves and will send several hundred of that species here to help her boys to victory. The contest is for the junior champlonship of Georgia and will be the record series of contests that have been arranged to decide this question.

GENERAL W. H. JACKSON, Executive Committee Centennial.

The Athens boys, it is said, have two or three well known 'varsity players on their team, which, if true, will strengthen them considerably. Many university men will be on hand anyway as spectators, if not participants in the contest. The Augusta colors are red and white and they also have a large reported to the contest. have a large reportoire of unique yells.
One of them runs thus:
"Red and white!
Our delight!

Augusta—Augusta! She's all right!" It has not been found out what the Athens colors and yell are. The teams will arrive this morning, accompanied by large delegations from the Electric and Classic cities. Be on hand at the grounds at 3 o'clock.

HE IS DYING.

FRANKLIN, OF GOAT WAGON FAME.

The Man Who Is Known by All Pedestrians on the Brink of the Grave.

Franklin, the cripple, who is known Atlanta over as the goat man, is bed-ridden at his home, 25 Krog street, wait-ing for death to relieve him from his sufferings and pains. ferings and pains.

For years past, for a span of life which marks the change from knickerbockers to fashionable attire of many young Atlantians, a wagon drawn by a goat, in which a decrepit looking man sat, always in an apparent crumpled position, has been seen upon the streets. At times the vehicle and the whiskered, horned motive power, with the poor cripple always right there, were found on Marietta street near the postoffice, while at other times the outfit has sought points on Peachtree for a tem-Wherever the outfit may have been the occupant of the wagon has sought alms and his petition was based upon the decla-ration that he could not walk-a declarathan which none have ever been truer. Sad was the story the rickety old cart, the lazy, sleepy goat and the poor, helpless occupant of the wagon made. Nothing could have been sadder to the observer and nothing more pathetic to those who have an eye for charity with a heart and purse. to respond. Day after day the helpless driver has been drawn to the city by a goat which ordinarily would have required a drive. Some thought the want of a driver never came apparent and every morning the penniless man who could not walk was at his post.

But now Franklin is at his home dying the goat is bleating for its master, the rusty wheels are now long called the come and then a day or two the end will have wiped out all recollection of the poor, helpless man.

Few of those, if any, who dropped a coin in his hand or who bought a goober or an apple from the poor fellow knew that, crippied as he was, he was the sole support of a mother nearly ninety years of age.

Now that aged mother, without fre upon the hearth or a crust in the cupboard, is rocking her boy, crippled though he is, quietly and gently into the grave—rocking him gently to eternal sleep. walk was at his post.

GREAT CUT IN RATES

Railroads Slash Fares to the Exposition for the Holidays.

THE LIKE NEVER SEEN BEFORE

Round Trips Only One-Half of the Regular Rate One Way.

MEANS IMMENSE TRAVEL NEXT WEEK

This Will Certainly Bring Everybody Who Has Not Been Here and Many Will Come Back.

The holidays will certainly be a rush week at the exposition. Railroad rates will be reduced until it will be cheaper to ride than to walk. Everybody in the south will be able to come to Atlanta, because the cheapest rates ever given will be in effect. The railroads are determined to do their best to induce the crowds to come. From points 250 miles away or more the round trip fare will be only one-half the regular first-class limited rate one way. For example, the round trip fare from a point from which the regular rate one way has been $9 will be only $4.50. The round trip fare from Savannah will be about $3.83, whereas the regular first class fare has been $7.65 one way. Points 100 miles from Atlanta and less than 250 miles will get a round trip rate of 60 per cent of the regular rate one way. Points more than twenty-five miles and under ninety-nine miles distant will get a rate of 1 cent a mile traveled, and for distances under twenty-five miles the rate will be one fare for the round trip, with a minimum fare of 25 cents. All these tickets are to be good for five days from the date of sale, and they will be on sale from December 19th to December 25th, inclusive, These are the lowest rates ever given in this part of the country, and probably are the lowest ever given anywhere, except in a railread war. There had been no intimation to the public that such a remarkable cut was contemplated, and the announcement causes a great and happy surprise. It will certainly bring the peo-ple. Nobody will hang back now, and tens of thousands who have been once take advantage of these reduced rates to come again. Points which have a regular limited rate of say $6 for the round trip will get a round trip for $1.80, and as shown above, 300-mile points which have had a rate of $9 each way, or $18 for the round trip, will get a $4.50 rate. This is reduction with a vengeance. The rates were really cut down two-thirds and three-fourths.

The exposition officials were happy last night. They declared that Thanksgiving week's attendance will certainly be exceeded. They count on 50,000 people a day easily. Farmers' day comes on December 20th, just after the rates go into effect, so that the agriculturists of the south will get the benefit the first ones. The cut was decided on at a meeting of passenger officials in Savannah yesterday. Without intending to take from the other roads any credit for their splendid generosity to the exposition, it may be said that the Western and Atlantic road was an ardent advocate of the reduction. But all the lines have done the handsome thing the Cotton States and International exposition the greatest possible success, And not only Atlanta, but all the south will thank the roads for their exceptional act, which may never again be paralleled and certainly never exceeded. Below is a special telegram from Savannah to The Constitution telling of the action of the passenger officials: Just What the Cut Is. Savannah, Ga., December 11.—(Special.)— The rate committee of the Southern States Passenger Association was in session all day at the DeSoto hotel. This was the regular quarterly meeting of the commit-tee, and it was freely attended. A great deal of routine business was transacted.

The rate to Atlanta from all ponts in the south during the Christmas holidays will be reduced below any figures yet given. It was decided to sell tickets to Atlanta and return from any point within the territory covered by the association and over 250 miles from Atlanta, from De-cember 19th to 25th, inclusve, for 50 per ent of the one fare first class lim rate. From ponts 100 to 249 miles from At-lanta the rate will be 60 per cent of the one fare limited rate. From twen-ty-five to ninety-nine miles it will be 1 cent per mile traveled, distances under twenty-five miles one fare for the round trip, with a mini-mum fare of 25 cents.

All tickets sold under this agreement are to have a five days' limit.

A replution providing for monthly meetings hereafter was unanimously

The members were entertained at dinner this evening by Commissioner D. G. Purse, of the Savannah freight bureau. They will resume their session again tomor. This is the first meeting held in Savan in five years.

Not Found Yet.

Rowe and Mercier, the two attorneys badly wanted by Sheriff Barnes, have not yet been located. They are wanted for forbiting bonds, both failing to appear in court when their cases were called two days ago.

It is said that one of the men is in the city and has been seen on the streets since his bond was forfeited. Sheriff Barnes and his deputies have been unable to find the men, but are making a vigorous search for them.

of the men from Tennessee. The Western and Atlantic, which is the only railroad owned by the state of Georgia, will demonstrate today the fact that it has fallen into safe hands in being leased by the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad. Since this railroad leased the Western and Atlantic much has been done to make the property better than it was before. The roadbed has been put in the best of condition, the bridges have all been remodeled in iron structure and the equipment is as good as is to be found on any of the railroads in the south. Western and Atlantic day at the exposition will be quite a feature of today's general programme. All the employes and friendly patrons of the road will wear white satin badges today bearing the pcture of Colonel J. W. Thomas, president of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis, lessee of the Western and Atlantic A Notable Parade.

It will be a notable parade that is to be given today by the men from the hills of Tennessee. One of the greatest features of the parade will be the body of confederate veterans-sure enough soldiers-who will be in line just as they used to march with their muskets on their shoulders and their gray jackets on their backs, their trousers legs stuck in their rude leggings. The boys in gray will be cheered all down the lines and will be the heroes of the day.

Besides these there will be many con panies of the Tennesse national guard here, coming from Nashville, Chattanoogs and other towns throughout the state.

The parade will form at 10 o'clock this morning and will escort the lieutenant governor of Tennessee, Governor Atkinson, President J. W. Thomas, of the Tennessee centennial exposition and the Tennessee commissioners to the exposition grounds. The regular programme of the day will begin in the auditorium at 11 o'clock sharp.

There will be speeches by President Charles Collier, of the Atlanta exposition

President Collier, of the exposition, will make an address of welcome and will be followed by Hon. Carroll D. Wright, chief of United States bureau of labor; Mr. John T. Wilson, grand master Track Foremen's Association; Mr. E. E. Clark, grand chief conductor, Order of Railway Conductors; Mr. F. P. Sargeant, grand master, Brother-

P. Morrisey, grand master Brotherhood of The Report Denied.

President Collier, of the exposition, has received from several states the information that a report is being industriously circulated to the effect that a number of exhibits have been removed in advance of the close. There is not a word of truth in this, and Mr. Collier makes the following statement: "To correct an erroneous impression, I wish to say to the public that not a single exhibit has been removed from the exposition. The exposition will close finally and forever on December 31st. Until then every exhibit will remain intact. So far as I know, there is no desire on the part of the exhibitors to remove their displays before that time. Certainly we will not permit any exhibit to be removed or in any way interfered with before the 1st of January, and until that date the exposi tion will be as complete as at any time since the opening."

their manager could not be found. Their captain, Mr. L. M. Frix, made what arrangements he could and the teams proceeded to the grounds, when another obstacle confronted them. The grounds were in a more suitable condition for some aquatin a more suitable condition for some aquatic contest than a gridiforo battle, being about two-thirds covered by water from the recent rains. No sort of attempt had been made to remedy this defect and so the game was necessarily called off. The boys, however, proceeded to see the great show and enjoy themselves. They are a fine looking set of fellows and would no doubt have put up a most interesting game for the soldier boys from the fort. It is a great pity that the contest was a failure through the part of bad management.

Augusta and Athens Meet Today.

Although Thanksgiving is generally con-sidered as the day that brings to a close the football season, there will nevertheless be an exhibition of that popular sport at the Buffalo Bill grounds today at 2 o'clock that will call out a large number of the lovers of the gridiron game, both from this city and Augusta.

lovers of the gridiron game, both from this city and Augusta.

The contest will be between two well trained elevens of the Augusta and Athens Young Men's Christian Associations. These two teams met in Augusta three weeks ago and put up a most intensely interesting exhibition of football playing; indeed, so well did the boys of both teams punch the pigskin that the result was a tie game.

The teams are composed of the junior members of their respective associations and have been practicing most enthusiastically for several weeks preparatory to today's battle. Today being Augusta day there will be legions of her people here and as football has recently become very popular in that city there will be a large number of admirers on the grounds when the game is called. One thing the Augustans pride themselves on when a baseball or football game is being played by their boys, and that is "rooting," and the rooters are all coming up today, so look out for a pandemonium din when the aforesaid rooters get in line. The Athenians know a thing or two in the rooting line themselves and will send several hundred of that species here to help her boys to victory. The contest is for the junior championship of Georgia and will be the record series of contests that have been arranged to decide this question.

GENERAL W. H. JACKSON, Member Executive Commi Centennial.

The Athens boys, it is said, have two or three well known 'varsity players on their team, which, if true, will strengthen them considerably. Many university men will be on hand anyway as spectators, if not participants in the contest. The Augusta colors are red and white and they also have a large reportoire of unique yells. One of them runs thus:

"Red and white!

Our delight!

"ugusta—Augusta!

Augusta—Augusta! She's all right!"

HE IS DYING.

FRANKLIN, OF GOAT WAGON FAME.

The Man Who Is Known by All Pedestrians on the Brink of

Franklin, the cripple, who is known Atlanta over as the goat man, is bed-ridden at his home, 25 Krog street, wait-ing for death to relieve him from his sufferings and pains.

For years past, for a span of life which marks the change from knickerbockers to fashionable attire of many young Atlantians, a wagon drawn by a goat, in which a decrepit looking man sat, always in an apparent crumpled position, has been seen upon the streets. At times the vehicle and the whiskered, horned motive power, with the poor cripple always right there, were found on Marietta street near the postoffice, while at other times the outfit has sought points on Peachtree for a temporary rest.

Wherever the outfit may have been the wherever the outhit may have been the occupant of the wagon has sought alms and his petition was based upon the declaration that he could not walk—a declaration which none have ever been truer. Sad was the story the rickety old cart, the lazy, sleepy goat and the poor, helpless oc-cupant of the wagon made. Nothing could have been sadder to the observer and nothing more pathetic to those who have an eye for charity with a heart and purse to respond. Day after day the helpless driver has been drawn to the city by a goat which ordinarily would have re-quired a drive. Some thought the want of a driver never came apparent and every morning the penniless man who could not morning the penniless man who could not walk was at his post.

But now Franklin is at his home dying and the goat is bleating for its master, while the rusty wheels are now long calling for oil. In a day or two the end will have come and then a day or two more will have wiped out all recollection of the poor, helpless man.

Few of those, if any, who dropped a coin in his hand or who bought a goober or an apple from the poor fellow knew that, crippied as he was, he was the sole support of a mother nearly ninety years of age.

Now that aged mother, without nr upon the hearth or a crust in the cupboard is rocking her boy, crippled though he is quietly and gently into the grave-rocking him gently to eternal sleep.

GREAT CUT IN RATES

Railroads Slash Fares to the Exposition for the Holidays.

THE LIKE NEVER SEEN BEFORE

Round Trips Only One-Half of the Regular Rate One Way.

IT MEANS IMMENSE TRAVEL NEXT WEEK

This Will Certainly Bring Everybody Who Has Not Been Here and Many Will Come Back.

The holidays will certainly be a rush week at the exposition.

Railroad rates will be reduced until it will be cheaper to ride than to walk. Everybody in the south will be able to come to Atlanta, because the cheapest rates ever given will be in effect. The railroads are determined to do their best to induce the crowds to come. From points 250 miles away or more the round trip fare will be only one-half the regular first-class limited rate one way. For example, the round trip fare from a point from which the regular rate one way has been $9 will be only $4.50. The round trip fare from Savannah will be about $3.83, whereas the regular first class fare has been $7.65 one way. Points 100 miles from Atlanta and less than 250 miles will get a round trip rate of 60 per cent of the regular rate one way. Points more than twenty-five miles and under ninety-nine miles distant will get a rate of 1 cent a mile traveled, and for distances under twenty-five miles the rate will be one fare for the round trip, with minimum fare of 25 cents. All these tickets are to be good for five days from the date of sale, and they will be on sale from December 19th to December 25th, inclusive. These are the lowest rates ever given in this part of the country, and probably are the lowest ever given anywhere, except in a railroad war. There had been no intimation to the public that such a remarkable cut was contemplated, and the announcement causes a great and happy surprise. It will certainly bring the peo-ple. Nobody will hang back now, and tens of thousands who have been once will take advantage of these reduced rates to come again. Points which have a regular limited rate of say $6 for the round trip will get a round trip for $1.80, and as shown above, 300-mile points which have had a rate of $9 each way, or $18 for the round trip, will get a $4.50 rate. This is reduction with a vengeance. The rates were really cut down two-thirds and three-fourths.

the agriculturists of the south will get the benefit the first ones. The cut was decided on at a meeting of passenger officials in Savannah yesterday. Without intending to take from the other roads any credit for their splendid generosity to the exposition, it may be said that the Western and Atlantic road was an ardent advocate of the reduction. But all the lines have done the handsome thing and evidenced their desire to help make the Cotton States and International exposition the greatest possible success, And not only Atlanta, but all the south, will thank the roads for their exceptional act, which may never again be paralleled and certainly never exceeded. Below is a special telegram from Savannah to The Constitution telling of the ac-

The rate to Atlanta from all ponts in the south during the Christmas holidays will be reduced below any figures yet given. It was decided to sell tickets to Atlanta and return from any point within the territory covered by the association and over 250 miles from Atlanta, from De-cember 19th to 25th, inclusve, for 50 per cent of the one fare first class limited rate. From ponts 100 to 249 miles from Atlanta the rate will be 60 per cent of the one fare limited rate. From twenty-five to ninety-nine miles it will be 1 cent per mile traveled, and for distances under twenty-five miles one fare for the round trip, with a mini-

Welcome to Tennessee. This will be Tennessee Day at the exposition grounds.

Heretofore it has been the pleasure of Atlanta to greet many states. In Illinois we clasped the hand that gave us the early godspeed upon the venture which is now in progress. From Pennsylvania came the descendants of those who stood closest around Independence hall and whose precious charge it was to have in their possession the immortal Liberty Bell. From New York we clasped the hand of those with whom we have had pleasant business relations, who have been friendly with us in adversity and rejoiced with us in prospercies, came down to greet this youngest

ity. Even far off Massachusetts, with her often-opposing sentiments and pollof the thirteen colonies. The states about us also came and were variously welcomed. In Maryland and Kentucky we greeted those who in the midst of war and devastation sought hard to join their fates with ours, and in South Carolina we recognize the older sister who watched over the fate of our early coly until it was able to stand upon its ut now in the coming of Tennessee there is something that appeals pecularly to Atlanta. | Run over the names se who have made Atlanta what e is of those who thirty-five or forty years ago cast their lot with us and have ilt up this magic city. Who but rers the kindly face of Campbell Wallace and feels proud that at so markets of the world, as regulated in part in giving character to this young city? Even in the day in which we live the man who has saved the exposition, whose name ever finds praise upon Atlanta tongues, Mr. S. M. Inman, is a present to us from Tennessee. The judge of our federal court, a great number of bankers and lawyers and merchants are from Tennessee. It is to their grit, to their doggedness, to their never-ending zeal, to their ignorance of the meaning of the word defeat, that Atlanta owes much of her triumph over adversity, and her success in enterprises that otherwise might have met with defeat.

The warmth of the welcome, therefore, which goes out to Tennessee today springs from the fact that leading among those who give it are many who first saw the light in the Volunteer State and who have not forgotten in the land of their adoption the sterling qualities, the rugged integrity and the genuine manhood of the state which gave Jackson, and Polk, and Johnson to the presidency of the United States.

Tennessee is at home in Georgia today-she is at home in Atlanta, and her sons need ask no admittance, for the latch string hangs on the outside of every door.

The People Are With Crisp. The conspiracy in certain circles against the further existence of the democratic party having succeeded in almost wrecking the party, the conspirators are now engaged in stabbing the democratic leaders in the national houseof representatives.

One would have supposed that, after these wreckers had passed through the crash of 1894 in which they lost both houses of congress and played into the hands of Shermanism generally, they would at least in the hour of defeat have the grace to retire and let the leaders of democracy have an opportunity to rebuild the party. occasion for this fresh attack for this assassin-like stab in the back, was the opening debate the other day in which Speaker Crisp found it necessary to rebuke the republican onslaughts upon the course of United States Minister Bayard in England. Ex-Speaker Crisp, in a spirited appeal, repelled the accusations made against the United States ambassador, and in doing so had to answer questions interjected about his record on the financial issue. The administration press, more concerned in defeating the aspirations of the people for favorable financial legislation than in the vindication of a democratic official, exhibited delight in what they esteemed a republican victory over

Such gloating as this may satisfy men who are in the ranks only to be wreckers and for the purpose of doing greater damage than if they had the manhood to go over to the republican side of the question at once. The prople, however, are awake to the emer gency, and they very well understand the purpose of such so-called democrats who stab democratic leaders for stand ing true to democratic principles while they themselves are lauded with praise from republican sources alone. If it is true that a man may be known by his association, this test applied to cer tain so-called democrats would indicate that they are more republican than democratic.

Influence of the Exposition.

In an article on the work of the exposition an exchange calls attention to its widespread influence in the present development of the resources of the state. This influence is demonstrated in renewed activity in business and in outside inquiry from the centers that control capital as to the advantages offered for investment in Georgia enterprises. Thus it is, the exposition has already accomplished much for Georgia and the entire south, and will accomplish more in future than all other agencies combined. This result was foreseen in its conception, for it follows naturally that when the attention of the people of an entire country-to say nothing of our foreign neighbors-is centered on one state, and that state the repository of the wealth and industry of the whole south, material benefits must ensue The exposition has received the unqualified indorsement of the people of all sections, and these people have been induced by what they saw there to extend their southern tours and to personally investigate the business and enterprises of southern towns. And such investigation always results favorably. Though Georgia could have made a much better showing than she has, still her exhibit before the nations has been such as to reflect credit on her and elicit general admiration, and there can be no doubt that the good work so | glory and to the credit of the Georgia happily inaugurated by the Cotton States and International exposition will be felt in our industrial growth for many years to come. And what is said of Georgia can also be said of the other states of the south. The exposition influence is abroad in the land, and it is destined to be a prime factor in the upbuilding of the entire

Light in Dark Places.

The Daily Financial News, of New York, has evidently had light on a subject which has heretofore been dark in that neighborhood, since it seems willing to declare that Mr. Cleveland, in his recent message, displays an ignorance of financial history that is as profound as it is deplorable.

It will be remembered that Mr. Cleve land said in his message that "no government, no human contrivance or act of legislation, has ever been able to hold the two metals together in free coinage at a ratio appreciably different from that which is established in the markets of the world." Commenting on this The Financial News says that "almost any schoolboy in the higher division could tell Mr. Cleveland that France held the two metals together in free coinage at the ratio of 151/2 to 1 from 1803 to 1873 in spite of the fact that the established early a day Tennessee took the leading London, had been in free operation the law vent their passion on those greater part of this time." who are accused of petty crimes.

This is true enough, but we are afraid that The Financial News does not see the point. Mr. Cleveland takes the effeet of bimetallism and tries to turn it into an argument against bimetallism The ratio established by France established the market price. The only market for silver in Europe during a period of nearly eighty years was at the mints coining it at the ratio of 151/2 to 1. The ratio first established by the United States-15 to 1-sent our gold to the French mints. The ratio established in 1834-16 to 1-sent our silver to the French mints; but during all that period of gold discoveries and the discarding of gold by Germany, the market price of the two metals was not appreciably different from the ratio of 151/6 to 1. because the mints were the markets and the ratio they had established made the market price.

These facts are so elemental in their nature and have been so long established by experience and so candidly acknowl edged, even by all intelligent monometallists, that we are surprised that Mr. Cleveland should not have an inkling of

And yet there is nothing surprising about it. The rich men of the east-the great bankers and money dealers-as well as the men he has gathered around him in his cabinet, have been burning incense before him so industriously that he no doubt believes their financial views, based on selfishness in one case and on ignorance in the other, are entirely correct. He is probably sincere in thinking that the financial system established by England to fit the greed of its plutocrats and shylocks is the best thing for the American people.

There is also light in another place where darkness has heretofore prevailed. In one of their circulars the Financial Information Company, of Boston, quote what The New York Financial News says and indorse it. They say that "while Mr. Cleveland has been growing in girth, if not in wisdom and mental stature, the American people taught by adversity and, in many points of the west and southwest by very real sufferings, have been learning the principles of finance." And to this statement it adds:

Some two years ago the Hon. Thomas B. Reed said to a reporter in London that he had learned that the silver question and the policy of protection must be treatd together. In view of the intimation the ountry has received recently from San Francisco that silver-using Japan eady and had begun to invade the Amerand in view of the fact that the products of Japanese and Indian mills have seriously diminished the takings of British manufactures by the oriental world—Lancashire yarn for example-our section of the United States will be soon forced to take cognizance of international influences, of which Mr. Reed has not been too long aware and which it is fashionable for New England to

It is wise for an old maid to turn her eyes occasionally away from the cat and the chimney corner. It will be wise when the northeastern portion of our country turns its mind from the exclusive contemplation of what will please the British money lending class—the only international nfluence it recognizes—and considers the other and more important international influences whose effects have been too long ignored because they were a stage or two farther removed in their direct effects. The welfare of the masses is the true welfare of the capitalist few. When the people are prosperous bankers thrive best.

These symptoms of light in dark places show very clearly that the silver question is taking hold on the public mind in a quarter that has been thought to be under the absolute dominion of the shylocks and plutocrats who desire the dollars in which they deal to constantly increase in value.

A Good Record.

The adjournment of the Georgia legislature last night marks the closing of a body which was distinguished for its fidelity to principle and zeal in the promotion of the interests of the state.

Assembling as this body did in the early days of a great national democratic triumph its position was beset with pit falls. In the election of a United States senator it was called upon to perform duty under circumstances which might have tried the best of men. The representatives of an ardently democratic state, with memories of republicanism sufficient to spur them on in their democracy, it was to be supposed that they would follow the course marked out by the national administration no matter where it led.

When this legislature assembled its members found the president elected by democratic votes trailing along in the paths of John Sherman, and paying more attention to the huzzas of republican spielers than to the expressed desires of those whose votes placed him where he was. In his hands was a patronage large enough to appall the boldest of men, and gathered around him were those whose courage was buoyed up by the loaves and fishes which they saw ahead. It is to the legislature just adjourned that it failed to be wheedled from the path of duty by the blandishments of placeholders or the seductive power of patronage. By a vote which showed the strength of democratic sentiment under the severest of tests the Georgia legislature elected to the senate one who was to stand for the people as against the gold influences of Europe and of Wall street.

. If the Georgia legislature had done nothing else this would have been a sufficient record. The body has been all through careful of the best interests of the state, true to the people and having ane eye on their future welfare. The members can, therefore, take home with them the knowledge that they have performed their duty well and deserve the plaudits of the people.

The Colleton Affair.

A publication of a card by the friends of the four men charged with lynching three negroes in Colleton, South Carolina, is a new development in lynching affairs. The card is explanatory, and that is hopeful, since it shows that public sentiment in that section is far from being in sympathy with crimes of that character.

On this account the Colleton affair is peculiar, and we are pleased to see that Governor Evans proposes to make a special effort to bring the facts to light. It is a matter that affects a great many more people than the poor negroes who are dead or the men who are charged with the murders. Justice is affected The law has been wounded. The remedy is to apply the wounded law to the men who may be found guilty of murdering the poor negroes.

Our opinion that the northern negroes would do well to employ some wise white man to speak for them in all matters where they are called on to speak.

The northeastern manufacturers will soon begin to discover that gold monometallism does not exhaust its deadly poison on the agricultural interests of the country.

Few people who have not visited Fitzgerald, says The Telegraph, have any idea of the great work of improvement that is going on. "Our new neighbors are a genial, hearty and whole-souled people who have come among us fully realizing the duties of citizens. They are self-dependent and energetic, and their influence will be felt before long throughout this section." The success of this colony will mean a greater influx of settlers to Georgia, and our people should lose no opportunity to plant the next lose no opportunity to plant the next colony in this section of the state.

Increased Yield of Cotton. From The Gwinnett, Ga., Herald. The amount of cotton that makes its appearance on our streets for the last two weeks astonishes the natives. We thought all the cotton had been sold except a few stained bales that were picked out late. But this is a mistake: there is a considerable amount yet in the country. The fall But this is a mistake; there is a considerable amount yet in the country. The fall has been so favorable that the last boll has opened and it has been picked out and carried to the gin. THE MESSAGE IN GEORGIA.

Albany Herald: While all those who blindly worship at the shrine of Cieve-landism approve, just as might have been expected, the president's message to the fifty-fourth congress, in general terms, we have yet to run across a single speech or newspaper article in which the Cleveland plan of retiring the greenbacks and treasury notes and enlarging the privileges of the national banks is discussed and approved. Both Seceretary Carlisle and Comptroller Eckels had committed themselves to such a plan before the message appeared, but they were probably acting under instructions. And in his next speech in Georgia it may be expected that Secretary Hoke Smith will also indorse this presidential plan, just as he has all others emanating from the same source during the last two years, but no public man or newspaper whose criticism or opinion of the message we have seen indorses it. Upon the contrary, many have freely expressed the opinion that the plan is unwise and without a redeeming feature to commend it to the favor of the common people.

Gwinnett Herald: As was expected, the president advocated the single gold standard. His position on this, subject is well understood and we have no doubt he is democracy?

Brunswick Times: The trepidation with which the president anticipates the intermediate steps of his financial policy is not encouraging, even to his most ardent followers. That a country with the rebounding forces of recovery from any distress that has marked the United States in all its vicissitudes, with its unbounded success of production, with its marvelous elements of energy, and with its enthusiasm of confidence and ambition, should be brought to a complete drag of enterprise in order to encourage the possibility of some particular theory, is a thing that is a bit galling to American pride.

Danielsville Monitor: Cleveland's recom-mendations as to the retirement of the greenbacks is being received as a huge joke by the people generally. Surely the pres-ident doesn't mean it when he asks con-gress to outlaw nearly half of the money of the nation?

Covington Star: Taken as a whole, the message is nothing more than a mere statement of the business affairs of the government, with but few recommendations as to remedies for our existing depressed condition of business and financial trouble.

STATE PRESS PERSONALS.

CRISP-Judge Crisp gave his views in CRISP—Judge Crisp gave his views in a a speech to the Georgia legislature, which is indorsed by the entire press of the state. Even those who oppose his views pronounce it the strongest argument in favor of silver ever produced, and admit that although they cannot agree with him upon the silver question, many will support him in the race for the senate on account of his brilliant record in congress. Judge Crisp has ever been an able defender of the rights and interests of the people, regardless of the views of the president and his cabinet. Judge Crisp is a man who has given to the south praise and admiration among the nations of the earth, and should he be permitted to rise higher among the ranks of his comrades will give to the south still greater honor than she has yet achieved.—Butler Herald.

MERCER-The Herald has watched the egislative career of Senator Mercer with interest, and shares the pride which his personal friends feel over the record he has made for himself. He has been one of the ablest and most useful men southwest Georgia has ever sent to either branch of the general assembly, and has won distinction for himself and reflected credit upon his constituents and this section of the state.—Albany Herald.

The Blue and the Gray. From The New York Sun. The movement for a reunion and parade of the civil war veterans has now assumed the form that insures success. It will be seen in New York next year. Often of late years the veterans of the confederate service have been called in to the gatherings of union veterans; often, too, at the south, those who once wore the blue, accepting hearty invitations, have mingled with those that wore the gray, and perhaps have marched with them. The encampments of the Grand Army, the celebrations of Decoration day, and the aion of battle parks, like those of Gettys-burg and Chickamauga, or other ceremo-nies connected with the war, have witness-

They would charter a car or a spe-cial train and descend on Washington when they wished to capture a political convention or get some special legislation through. They would go to the Arling-ton, give a dinner to themselves, listen to a speech from Chauncey Depew and then return to Gotham under the impres that the whole matter was settled t way. There were nearly 200 men in the delegation that went from New York to Washington to secure the world's fair. At the banquet they gave at the Arlington to impress congress with the importance of sending the fair to New York only one man was present who was not a resident of New York. How he managed to get in has never been explained. Hatton said he always thought that it must have been an oversight. Did the congressmen from the other states refuse to attend the dir ner given by the New Yorkers? Not by any means. The average congressman never fails to avail himself of an opportunity to dine at some other fellow's ex-pense; they were not invited. Do you wonder that congress decided to tend the world's fair to Chicago? Chicago has a better method. When she wants anything she buys it and says nothing." An Alabamian, who was listening to this talk, remarked:

"You can count on one thing an that is that the south does not want the next national convention held in New York. I do not know what the composition of the executive committee is on financial lines, but I do know that the silver people to not want the convention held in an easern city, where everything in the work would be done to stampede the delegate for gold and a goldbug candidate."

With one arm broken in two places and both legs fractured, he is the home of scratches, bruises and cuts enough to make a guide post to the death of almost any n, even a man with a physical structure and a constitutional capacity of the strongest on earth. Mr. McNeally lives at 47 Plum street and for some time past has been working in the Ware furniture factory in the western part of the city. Yesterday morning he nt to work as usual and about 10 o'clock, ile discharging his usual duties, became in some way entangled in the machinery. He was drawn from his feet into the air and whipped about at the mercy of the power of the machinery until rescued by his fellow workmen. When released Mr. Mc Neally was unconscious and for a few minutes it was thought he was dead. Nearly every piece of clothing had been torn from his body and bruises, gashes and bumps were plentiful. To the casual obit was apparent that one arm had been broken, while it was almost as plain that one leg had been fractured. The Grady hospital was called and Dr. Brewster, when informed of the condition of the man, hurried the ambulance out. When Mr McNeally reached the hospital he was suffering intensely, having regained consciousness after the ambulance was called. An examination showed that one arm had been terribly fractured in two places and that one leg carried a compound fracture, while the other had a slight fracture below the knee. In addition to these injuries Mr. McNeally's face, head and body was cut, bruised and torn badly. At first the surgeons were apprehensive that the arm would have to come off, but successfully the fractured bones were returned to their natural places and the arm will be saved. The other fractures were adjusted and then the flesh wounds were cared for. THE VALENTINES HELD.

MRS. VALENTINE WILL BE PROS-ECUTED TODAY.

Man and Wife Figuring in Police Circles, Charged with Larceny. Pretty Smooth Crooks.

Mrs. May Valentine will be prosecuted in the state courts on a charge of larceny from the person. A warrant was sworn out against her yesterday and she will be arraigned before Judge Foute today. Mrs. Valentine is accused of robbing a young man of about $140 some time Mon-day night. Yesterday's Constitution confained an account of the affair given by the victim. He called at police headquarters Tuesday morning and reported that he had been robbed by a woman with whom

While standing on the street talking to man's vest and took from the inside pocket a wallet containing the amount stated. She then left for parts unknown. The young man described the woman and the officers concluded that it was Mrs. Valentine who did the crooked work, the description fitting her perfectly. She was arrested Tuesday morning and is now in the woman's department at police headquarters.

Mrs. Valentine vigorously denies that she got the money and declined to compromise the matter by paying the amount in question. She claims that she was not on the street and had never seen the young man until taken before him by the officers. She employed Lawyer Mack yesterday and will fight the case. The victim of the woman's smiles is a fellow from an adjacent state, wh came to town to see the exposition. He gave his name to the police, but requested that it be kept from the newspapers. He will appear against Mrs. Valentine when he case comes to trial. Jeff Valentine, the husband of the woman is still locked up at the station house. He is being held to be sent to New York to answer two indictments for grand larceny. He says that he is willing to go back to the metropolis without a requisition. He and his wife are said to be a pair of the smoothest crooks in the country.

CUDDY LET GO.

THE STREET PREACHER WARNED BY THE COURT.

Judge Calhoun Says That He Can Preach, but Must Not Disturb Any One in Doing So.

W. A. Cuddy, the street preacher who has attained considerable notoriety since coming to the city recently, appeared in the city police court yesterday morning to answer charge of disorderly conduct. The charge grew out of the slight disturbance in front of the Catholic church last Sunday morn-Judge Calhoun dismissed the case against Cuddy at the request of Mr. P. J. Mora and Mr. J. J. Lynch, who, it seems, made the complaint to the police against Cuddy.

The gentlemen stated that they did not desire to push the case, simply wanting the court to warn Cuddy to refrain from insult-ing members of the Catholic church by taking a position in front of their edifice and tirading against the Catholic religion. Judge Calhoun said that the law gives any one the right to preach on the streets, but that privilege did not go to the extent that a person could so conduct himself as to disturb others in their worship. warned Cuddy to keep the peace, telling him that if he disturbed the worship of the Catholics or any other denomination he would be vigorously dealt with by the courts. The judge said that Cuddy could not go in front of a church and preach to the disturbance or annoyance of those worshiping there.

Cuddy was seen by The Constitution after the trial. He said that he told the court that the prophets of old entered the churches and took issue with the priests and that he felt that any messenger from God had the same right. The preacher said that if the spirit moved him and he felt that it was his duty he would enter the churches of Atlanta and ask questions of the priests or ministers.

Cuddy announces that he will preach three sermons at the corner of Marietta and Peachtree streets next Sunday at 2, 6 and 9 o'clock p. m. His subjects will be "On This Rock I Build My Church," "Reasons Why There Is No Purgatory," and "Rome Foretold of in Prophecy," the latter sermon being preached from the Catholic Bible and illustrated by a large chart carried by the preacher. disturbance or annoyance of those

That paper will contain the name of each he number of votes he received in each ward, with the total vote given him in seven wards. Along with that pap will come a resolution reciting the fact that the names given in the resolution received the highest vote for the positions named, and declaring them elected for the term of service provided by law and eligible to qualification at the regular meeting of the general council on the first Monday

In the sixth ward the ballots were handled by Mr. John Gatins, a man who has been manager at more elections in Atlanta than any man in the city and a man against whom no suspicion of any kind can be directed, Mr. E. A. Robertson and Major S. Frank Warren, both veterans in the same work. When Mr. Schlesinger. the first voter in the sixth, came to the polls, he found the box at 150 Peachtree, at the junction of Forsyth. The building there is a fruit and confection store and a temporary partition was erected to shut off the box, surrounded by the managers and clerks, from the patrons who might come into the store. There till 6 o'clock the legal votes were handed in and accepted.

But after the last vote had been deposited and it was time to open the box for count the managers securely locked the box, lift-ed it up, and with the tally sheets, lists moved to Manager Robertson's store in the block above, to make the count. The move was made so the managers could It was, as is known, 3 o'clock in the morning when the count was finished, and it was, too, as is known, the last prefirst; Mr. Nelson and Mr. Morris, of the fourth, as well as the fate of Mr. Meador and Mr. Hutchison, of the sixth, hung in

Now, those who are dong the talking and who are supposed to be behind the resolution contemplated next Monday, declare that the removal of the ballot box nade was wholly illegal, and that plenty of law can be found that way.

The second ward was the last to finish the count, and during the evening while the count was going on an unpleasant feature or two occurred. Soon after the count began, or per before the tally sheets were brought into actual use, a young gentleman well known in the city was allowed in the room, where he made himself comfortable. Later in the evening a city official was given access to the room to secure some papers he needed. This became known to Mr. Maddox, the member-elect from the second ward, and he tapped at the door, demanding admittance for himself or the presence of a friend. The whole matter resulted in a request to the young Atlantian to leave the room. He declined to go, but subsequently, when shown what the result

SKINNER IN SHAKESPEARE.

THE BRILLIANT ACTOR WILL BE SEEN IN "SHYLOCK" TONIGHT.

An Attractive Double Bill-The Imperial Created a Sensation with Its Pretty Theater and Fine Bill.

Otis Skinner is an actor who has won his place in the front rank through his brilliant ability. Were he a farce comedian or vaudeville artist with padded legs and a strident voice, it would be eminently the thing, according to the this-day vernacular of stagehood, to refer to his "genius;" and for that reason I decline to use a term which, under other conditions, would be most appropriate. For Otis Skinner knows the highest order of genius-the genius of accomplishment; knows it because he possesses it. He is a brilliant fellow whom the gods have certainly endowed most lavishly, and who has used his talents according to the good-and-faithful-servant stand-

As leading man with Margaret Mather and then with Madame Modjeska, he was able to give the finishing touch, as it were, to his experience and then the time was ripe for him to tempt fortune as a star. It was the right step taken at the right time, and the results have already demonstrated its wisdom. "His Grace De Gran mant," a dainty play very much of the "Beau Brummell" order, was his first stellar vehicle and while it was by no means such a play as his talents warrented, it was attractive and pleased. His new play is stronger and the role of Villon gives him much better opportunities. But even that is inadequate to show the stuff-more of the vernacular of stageland—that is in him.
Otis Skinner has won his right to conotts Skinner has won his right to consideration as a great actor through his magnificent portrayal of great roles. Tonight the people of Atlanta will have their first opportunity to see him as Shylock. It has been said of him by the most competent critics of the country that his is the greatest Shylock of his day. Modjes-ka so regards it and certainly no more competent critic exists than this great actress whose Portia is a classic; and her judgment has had the very best indorsement of press and public.

"The Merchant of Venice" has not been seen here in years. It will be given a complete and elaborate production with a fine cast. The evening's entertainment will include also "Katherine and Pertruchio," making a most attractice double bill. The sale for tonight indicates the biggest au-dience of the engagement and serves to show that despite all talk to the contrary, the people do appreciate Shakespeare's plays when they are well produced. VICTORY FOR MERCER

Judge Lumpkin rendered a decision in the Cheney will case yesterday, which awards $13,000 of the estate of the deceased to the Mercer university, of Macon, that amount being in addition to the endowment to the institution not questioned by the relatives of the deceased

The decision was an important one, cor ering about eighteen pages of typewritten copy. It was made on the petition of the trustees of the institution, represented by Mr. W. B. Willingham and Mr. C. That Mr. Freund misunderstood the time of my editorship carries no blame. Colo-nel Styles was editor only four months. I became editor in chief in May, 1869, and Mr. W. A. service:
"The paper was carried to great success under him. His Editorials gave him a national reputation. It was no easy task in the days of reconstruction to run a daily paper."

This may offset the anonymous gentleman's poor opinion of myself.

The Rev. Sam Small, long on The Constitution, in an article written for the same occasion, but not received in time and published June 25, 1893, thus speaks of my adjurial work:

is as follows: Monday, Wednesday matinee and Friday night, "Brother John," Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday nights, "The Senator," and Wednesday night and Saturday matinee, "His Wife's Father." "Brother John" was selected for the opening bill in consequence of the very pleasing impression it made upon its original presentation in this city last winter. It is an extremely bright work that is pure in tone, sweet in thought and rich in sentiment that is not insipid. "The Senator" is an old favorite and is one of the most successful strictly American comedies presented during the present decade. "His Wife's Father" will be the novelty of Mr. Crane's engagement. The play comes here excellently recommended.

same occasion, but not received in time and published June 25, 1833, thus speaks of my editorial work:

"It will find no dispute anywhere that his editorial conduct of this paper during that strange and stormy period of state history had no equal anywhere in the south, and per consequence is without a rivalry in all the annals of journalism. It called for a man of marvelous versatility to meet the demands of that period. While Georgia lives and her sons can read the annals of her degradation and redemption, the Gouble-starred names of The Constitution and Avery will shine as Castor and Pollux in the constellation of that heroic era fixed in the heavens of the state's history."

I do not deserve this, but it testifies that I tried to do my duty.

When the monument to the brilliant Grady was unveiled October 21, 1891, I was asked to write my connection with him. I wrote, and the words can be found in The Constitution of that day:
"Henry Grady was a born journalist, and it happened to me to be linked to the first notes of his genius, thoughts and words that foretold the rich flavor of his ripe days. It fell to me to induct him into the work in which he so shone, and to see and use his gift, of which he himself did not know. I was with him when he was older and riper, and we were in the hottest news strife of any time, in which his power had crucial test, and gave a royal harvest."

He came home, writing me of his return. Colonel Huriburt, manager of the Western and Atlantic railroad, originated press excursions, now so popular, and got up the first one. I wrote for Grady and sent him, a youth inexperienced in journalism, as the representative of The Constitution, the leading paper of the state, to compete with the trained old journalists of Georgia, confident that he would hold his own. He wrote the best letters of the whole lot and they were generally copied. This revealed him his power and he often told me that it showed him his vein and put him into journalism. He was in consequence offered the editorship of a Rome paper. He did work for The Constitution, while I was editor, and later we owned and ran the Atlanta Herald.

These are the facts, which show that the anonymous writer has written wrongly of what he did not know.

I should not have noticed the mistake if he had not unkindly said things that reflected on myself.

Mr. Grady's good wife thanked me for the appreciation of her husband in my article. Mr. Grady's genius discovered itself to the country. Such 'gifts work out their own harvest.

BRILLIANT EXERCISES HELD AT NOON

The Great Commonwealth of Texas Made a Grand Display and Filled the Auditorium.

From the Lone Star State a large delegation came to the exposition yesterday.

The morning trains over the railroads from the west were crowded with visitors and the hotel registers had the signatures of many Texans on their pages.

Governor Culberson, who was expected with the party and who, up to the last oment, intended coming, was detained at home on account of pressing business matters. There was much disappointment among the party on account of the absence of the governor, as he was on the programme for the celebration of Texas and the Texan's love their chief executive to such an extent that they always want him with them wherever they go.

Just after Mr. Swaney, of Chattanooga, had concluded his address, Mayor Ochs announced that Texas would celebrate her

Commissioner R. G. Glenn.

Commissioner R. G. Glenn.

Mr. Glenn said:

"We are accustomed to associate the state of Texas with whatever is great in this union. The area of your state is four times that of the New England states; six times that of New York; seven times that of Ohio. Your territory is larger than the republic of France. You cover a greater territory than the empire of Germany, or of Austria. If our 65,000,000 of people were to occupy the state of Texas you still would not be as thickly populated as the state of Massachusetts now is.

"There is another great feature in con-nection with your state that makes you stand alone in your pre-eminence in the union. You have a school fund amounting to $100,000,000, and I am told that the alue of the investments of this school and is likely to double in the next two decades.

"Your state capitol is the largest in America. You raise one-third of all the cotton that is raised in the United States. Your prairies yield one-seventh of the beef cattle used in the United States. So, Mr. President, the Lone Star State is preeminent and alone in many of the great features that characterize the wealth and importance of our country.

"Perhaps, the most singular instance of courage shown in any battle fought on American soil was shown at the Alamo. The heroes who were surrounded and American soil was shown at the Alamo. The heroes who were surrounded and butchered in that terrible sacrifice determined if they must die, they would all die together and leave no messenger to tell the story of the sacrifice.

Texas and Georgia Are Kin.

"Texas is peculiarly akin to Georgia. We have given you some of the best blood of the Empire State of the South, and so far as the records go the contribution of brain that Georgia has made has been prominent in the development of the intellectual and spiritual, as well as the material life of your state. In this goodly company that comes to Georgia today are men whose fathers and mothers sleep upon Georgia soil. They must feel in returning to Georgia that they have come back to their old home, and ten thousand tender memories and sweet associations must come back to them as they recall the names of those, whom they knew and loved, and who sleep today in quiet grave—ands in the old home state.

"One thing has impressed me, Mr. President, more and more as I have looked into the faces of the goodly company that has gathered from time to time in this auditorium from all the states in this union. I have observed that the sentiments uttered from this platform that have received the most Texas and Georgia Are Kin.

daces of the goodly company that has gathered from time to time in this auditorium from all the states in this union. I have observed that the sentiments uttered from this platform that have received the most unstinted and unvarying applause have been those sentiments that affect the lifethe home life, the social life, the patriotic life—of all our people from all sections of the country. The sentiments of patriotism, and love of home, and national fraternity, and interstate comity, have been the sentiments that have touched the hearts of our people from all sections; and these are the sentiments at last that must bind us together and make us one people forever. After all we descended from one common stock. We have a common heritage and a common destiry, and why should we not applaud and grow enthusiastic over the thought that our grandest achievements in intellectual and sprifttual and material life are yet to be realized? A freat ceal has been said about our industrial prosperity. I shall be glad to see the time come when every bale of cetton that is raised in Texas and in Georgia and in all the southern states shall be manuscured on the ground where the lint is loked. We shall never secure our comercial independence as states until we state, and present time, But it will never do, sir, to hour children that our industrial indust

Educate the Children.

"I trust that neither Texas, nor Georgia, nor Tennessee, nor any southern state, will ever lose sight of the idea that the best investment that we can make for our children is the investment that we put under the hats of our children. Intellectual supremacy must keep well in front of material supremacy. The magnificent school fund of Texas will be her safeguard for all time to come in this direction, and a similar safeguard must be thrown around the children of every southern state, if we are to preserve the heritage in intellectual and spiritual things that our forefathers tried to transmit to us.

"Georgia congratulates the state of Texas, not so much on account of her vast domain, not on account of her magnificent capitol, not on account of her inexhaustible resources, but mainly and most of all on account of the magnificent provision that she has made for the education of her children. It is in this sentiment, with the proud appreciation of what you have done and are doing for the rising generations of our southland, that we proudly welcome you to this state and to this city, and to witness our own growth and development as these are made manifest by this splendid industrial exposition."

Texas Makes Response.

Texas Makes Response.

In the absence of Governor Culberson Lleutenant Governor Jester, of Texas, represented the state and made the official esponse to the address of welcome.

Mr. Jester said:

"Your cordial welcome extended on behalf of Georgia and Atlanta to us as the representatives of Texas meets in our hearts a hearty and sincere response which I can but feebly portray. Fully cognizant of the ties of blood, of similar interests and of history which bind your grand old commonwealth to our newer and more western one, we came within your gates feeling not as strangers, but rather as friends and brothers. The singularly hearty and hospitable reception which you have accorded us on every hand has fully justified us in coming imbued with such feelings

We bear this morning and lay at Georgia's feet Texas' meed of praise for this beautiful and mighty creation of Georgia intellect and industry, your great exposition. "It is now on the shady side of three decades since this city, destroyed by the cruel necessities of war, arose Phoenix-like from her ashes and exhibited a power of recuperation and of growth upon which all the world gazed and applauded. And it is now but the part of wisdom that the same creative force, the same energy and the same industry which builded your beautiful city should likewise build this exposition as a tangible evidence and as a monument to the world of what thrift and energy properly applied can accomplish.

The Exposition Means Much.

The Exposition Means Much.

"This exposition is big with possibilities and fraught with far-reaching influences. The southern states, whose products are represented here and whose interests this exposition subserves, must needs receive greater attention from the outside world and foreign capitalists, thus tending to the development and utilization of her mighty storehouses of wealth which now lie dormant pleading but for the strokes of the magic wand to cause them to burst with plenty and set free a golden stream of riches. An era of prosperity is dawning upon the southern states which will place them foremost among the states of the world. Their position on the field of progress and industry is stragetic and invulnerable and it is with a pardonable pride that I say our own mighty empire of Texas, which this exposition honors today, stands second to none of them.

The Lone Star State.

"Texas is cosmopolitan in her citizenship, being composed largely of the best blood of all the states of the union, and especially of the more southern ones, thus forming a manhood well worthy of the highest destiny. Texas is yet young, celebrating next at the Texas State fair and Dalias exposition the semi-centennial of her existence as a state, and while Georgia was celebrating her completion of this same cycle, Texas, practically a vast uninhabited domain separating Mexico from Angio-American civilization, was groping in the darkness of Mexican misrule and oppression, but it was Georgia's brave sons and the braye sons of the other states who gave up their lifeblood at Goliad, at San Jacinto, at the Alamo, that the yoke of Mexican bondage might be broken and cast forever from a free and liberty-loving people. A rich and glorious heritage has been bequeathed Texas in her early history and the deeds of heroism and valor of her fearless pioneers read like storless of Roman and Grecian heroes and will be sung in song and story The Lone Star State. roes and will be sung in song and story to the uttermost ends of time. "The new republic, greater in domain than Great Britain, Ireland and Italy by one-fourth and larger than the German empire or France, and possessing a deversity of resources quite as great as her domain was extensive, might have continued until this good hour a free and independent nation, but the wisdom of her statesmen dictated otherwise and a new star was added to the flag of the union—a star whose brilliancy sheds luster on its companions.

He gave a detailed history of his state, from the early settle ment down to the present day, recounting the brave deeds of her sons and the virtues the brave deeds of her sons and the virtues of her noble women. He said in substance:
"In the early part of the seventeenth century the settlement and colonization of America by English companies began to take hold and assume shape at Jamestown and Plymouth. These settlements in the new world attracted the attention of all Europe, and especially of a class of hardy liberty-loving people, who hated kings and despised tyranny and intolerance. Other colonies, composed of the same class of people, were destined soon to follow and after the accession of James II to the throne of England and the repeal of the edict of Nantes by Louis XIV a storm of religious persecution broke forth in England and France and thousands of protestants fied to Holland and Germany, while others sought the wilds of North America, where they could breather the air of freedom and be beyond the reach of intolerance.

Settlement of Texas.

"About this time, 1685, a French colony, composed of immigrants from France, led by La Salle, who were seeking an asylum in this western world, fleeing from the inclerance of their own country and designing to found a settlement in the delta of the Mississippl, lost their way, salled past it and landed in Matagorda bay and there established Fort St. Louis on the Lavaca. This was the first white settlement in what is now known as Texas. Four years later this settlement was scattered and broken up by DeLeon, a Spanish officer, and the mission of San Francisco established on its site. In 1714 the French again attempted to settle a colony in Texas through the Instrumentality of St. Dennis, but he wastaken prisoner by the Spanish governor of Coahulla and, to secure his freedom, became an apostate, married the daughter of the commandant of the Spanish mission San Juan and introduced the Spanish missionaries into Texas, who established a number of missions. History of the Lone Star State

History of the Lone Star State.

"Texas was the bone of contention between France and Spain for a hundred years, and before she obtained her independence had belonged twice to France, twice to Spain and once to the United States, and when Mexico threw off the yoke of Spain, in 1821, she became a Mexicantate. Size formed a part of that immensiterritory known as the Louistana purchase, it is happlean, as first censul of France, cedud to the United States.

known as the peace of Amiens. In 1819 the United States, by treaty, ceded Texas to Epain in exchange for Florida, and it is under this treaty that the United States and Texas are now both contending for and claiming what is known as Greer county. In 1836 Texas won her independence at the memorable battle of San Jacinto, where the Texans, under General Sam Houston, with the battle cry of 'Remember the Alamo,' destroyed and captured the entire Mexican army, and Santa Anna, the president of Mexico, was also taken a priscor. Santa Anna entered into a treaty with Texas acknowledging her independence and promising that his government should carry it cut, and although his life was demanded by the Texans for the butchery of their comrades at the Alamo and Goliad, he was finally set at liberty and sent to Washington by General Houston, and from there went home to Mexico. The Mexican gover Ment never ratified this treaty, but in 182 invaded Texas again. Santa Anna having come back into power again as the president of Mexico, wrote a letter in which he declared that Mexico would never vary her hostile attitude until she had planted her eagle standard on the banks of the Sabine. To this President Houston repiled, 'Ere the banner of Mexico shall triumphantly float on the banks of the Sabine, the Texas standard of the single star, borne by the Anglo-Saxon race, shall display its bright folds in liberty's trumph on the istmus of Darien.'

Annexation of Texas.

Annexation of Texas.

"In December, 1845, the president of the United States approved the bill for the annexation of Texas and in February, 1846, the left president of the republic handed over the reins of government to the first governor, and the Lone Star republic passed into history, while in its stead appeared a state bearing the single star—the brightest in the constellation of states. It is contemplated, and is but right and proper, that Texas should celebrate the semi-centennial of her statehood next year at Dallas with imposing ceremonies. Texas is an empire within herself—large enough to settle a population greater than is now in the United States—is more than six times as large as the state of New York, stretching over eight-hundred miles from east to west, and about seven hundred miles from its extreme northern boundary, in latitude 36 degrees, 30 minutes, to its most southern boundary, and having a coast front of nearly four hundred miles, with many natural forts and harbors, and deep water at Galveston an assured fact. The growth of Texas has been marvelous. When ceded to the United States by France in 1803, her whole population was about seven housand. When she achieved her independthe United States by France in 1803, her whole population was about seven thousand. When she achieved her independence her population did not reach fifty thousand. In 1850 her population was 2,306,-600, and it is safe to say that at the end of this decade her population will reach five millions. The climate of Texas is all that the heart of man could long for, neither too hot nor too cold. Summers and winters are mild—per innial flowers bloom the year around, and her people, fanned by the gentle winds from the north and soothed by the breezes sweeping from the gulf of Mexico display a freshness and vigor scen nowhere else on God's footstool. All kinds of fruit and vegetables grow in great abundance. In fact, almost everything that can be grown anywhere grows in Texas. More cattle are raised in Texas than in any other state in the union. Western Texas, where the Comanches once held their bloody carrivals, is now the home of the cattle kings, whose lowing herds feed upon pastures larger than ordinary counties. More sheep are raised in Texas than in any other state except Ohio One-third of the cotton crop of the United States is raised in Texas of the United States is raised in Texas and she can produce enough cotton for the entire world's consumption. The total cotton crop of the United States for 1894-1845 was about 9,000,000 hales, of which Texas produced about 3,300,00) bales.

Law Abiding Citizens.

"The people of Texas are as law abiding as can be found in any state of the union. Now and then some newspaper has a flaming editorial about crime in Texas and tagaliure of Texas courts to enferce the law. This is an injustice to Texas and simply not the truth, but the ranting of a sensational editor for the purpose of selling his paper. Be it said to the honor of the present governor of Texas, that in the face of a howling opposition from some of the newspapers he called the legislature together in extra session to pass a law to prohibit prize fighting in Texas, and today the right of the governor of Texas to the championship of the world stands unchallenged, for with the help of a patriotic legislature he absolutely knocked out both Corbett and Fitssimmons in the first round. The shylocks abuse Texas because of her exemption laws. They are the class which abuse our forefathers for saying there should no longer be imprisonment for debt. It was left for the ploneers of Texas to lead the way as they deliberated in a log house for a capitol, and to say to the It was left for the pioneers of Texas to lead the way as they deliberated in a log house for a capitol, and to say to the world that the homestead of the family should be an asylum upon which the creditor might gaze but could never enter. It is the home that begets patriotism and independence. Elberty cannot long endure the loss of independence, and no people can be independent after they have lost their homes and their roof tree has been swept away.

Just Laws of the State.

Just Laws of the State.

"Again, Texas, by her laws, has said the wages of the laborer shall not be garnisheed. Experience has demonstrated that these beneficent laws, instead of shielding men from the payment of their debts, better enable them to discharge their obligations, and at the same time protect and secure their families and a living—free from the rapacity of creditors.

Her Lovely Women.

Her Lovely Women.

"There is something else of which Texas can boast. It is her pretty women, and while Georgia, and especially Atlanta, is justly noted for pretty women, yet it may truthfully be said that Texas has more pretty women within her borders than all the other states in this union excepting Georgia, and be it said to the chivalry of her manhood there is not a man in all Texas who would not offer up his life freely in defense of the honor of our women. It was with Eadwin, as king of Northumbria that began the English proverb so often applied to after kings, 'A woman with her babe might walk scatheless from sea to sea in Eadwines's day. Women are protected in our state, from border to border, by the honor and chivalry of Texans.

"The magnificence of this exposition here attests what a people can do by united effort. This exposition should cause the bosom of every man who loves his country to swell with pride. The exhibits show the total resources of our country and the development which is rapidly taking place; soon the hum of the spindles will be heard over our entire southland.

"Texas and Texans fed a deep interest in the great state of Georgia. It was here on Georgia soil that Texans, led by Hood, by Ector, by Granbury and by many others of 'the bravest of the brave,' battling together with the sons of Georgia, under the banner of the lost cause, poured out their life blood as a libation to the justness to the honor and glory of their cause.

"In conclusion, what must be the destiny of the Empire State of Texas, with such a glorious history, genial climate, fertile soil and boundless territory, who can predict the grandeur and glory of her possibilities? Matchless Texas, 'Of glory's immortal tablets there is one for her, for her alone'

Attorney General Crane Spoke. The last speaker on the programme was Attorney General H. M. Crane, of Texas. Mr. Crane said that Georgia, Texas and Tennessee were kindred states and that they possessed many things in common. He spoke at length upon the resources of the Lone Star State, and said it was impossible for him to close without saying something of the beautiful women of Texas. They were the most beautiful of all the states, and he was glad to have an opportunity to say something about them.
At the close of his address Mayor King invited the delegation to lunch with him at the iPedmont Club. The Texas delegation spent the day on the grounds and will remain for several days in the city.

THEY LOST DIAMONDS.

MANY COMPLAINTS OF UNION DEPOT THEFTS.

Story of the Arrest of a Diamond Thief in The Constitution Brings Letters from Victims.

That there has been considerable pickpocket work and diamond snatching about the union depot recently is evinced by the number of letters received at police headquarters describing stolen articles lost by visitors.

A number of letters of the kind have come to Chief Connolly in the last few days, the writers stating that they lost articles and valuables of different kinds while in the city, many thinking that the thefts occurred at the depot. Several men have complained of losing diamonds at the depot. Several days ago an article appeared in The Constitution giving an account of the arrest of a diamond thief on a car under the depot, it being stated that the man had a fine diamond stud in his pocket when searched at police headquarters. Charles E. Smith was the man in question and since the account of his arrest appeared several letters have been received at police headquarters, stating that the writers had read of the arrest of the man and suggesting that the stone recovered might be on stolen from them while in the city. Among the letter writers and victims of diamond thieves are James J. Thompson, of Montgomery; L. Newburger, of Cin-cinnati, and M. W. Burns, of Selma, all of whom were in the city recently. They described stones lost while here and wanted descriptions of the stone recovered from Smith. Other visitors have made complaint of losing valuable stones and watches.

The stone recovered from Smith proved to be the property of J. E. Carson, an Harriet Merroe than about most clever peeple. There is nothing of the stock woman about little Harriet Monroe—nothing of the weman who comes to be interviewed; no egotism, no aggressive assertion. She is always the dainty little lady, the genuine artist, who feels that her life belongs more to herself and the people she cares for than to the public.

Find her out, know her sincerely, talk with her as woman to woman, and a beautiful, aspiring soul is unfolded to you.

She has opinions-original, vital ones and she is in the best sense a woman of today. Those glasses looked out of place athwart her pretty nose. She scarcely ever wears them, and never in evening attire. At Mrs. Thompson's reception to Mrs. Palmer she was simply exquisite. So many people who write poetry would never be suspected of it from their appearance, but she looks like a poet.

Her gown was of white satin, showing a tiny lilac stripe, and about her pretty chiffon. Her brown hair was parted and a low coil. She would have been a fine model for some modern painter's figure

The Industrial List Was the Favorite Again Yesterday-Wheat Lost Another Fraction.

New York, December 11.-Stocks were irregular again today and the transactions were on a smaller scale than for some time past. The total shares were 206,191 shares, including 51,400 Tobacco, 30,000 Sugar, 29,600 Leather preferred and 23,400 Reading. The Industrials were firmer than of late, and there were indications of buying for inside account in the cases of Tobacco and Leather preferred. Tobacco ranged between 69% 672½. The directors of the company today declared the usual dividend on the preferred and passed the one due on the common, thus ratifying the action of the managers on Friday last, which caused such a commotion in the market. It is understood that the stockholders' move-ment to investigate which was started on Saturday has been abandoned. Sugar, after declining to 104%, rose rapidly to 106% on buying by a well-known trader in the Industrials. Leather preferred, on purchases by brokers alleged to be acting for insiders, moved up from 61½ to 64 and receded to 62%. Chicago Gas was quiet at 57,60694. Consolidated Gas made a new high record, rising 5 points to 159. McIntyre & Wardwell's Cotton Letter New York, December 11.—The decined was largely attributable to disapponting advices from Liverpool, but some other influences of an adverse character were rather larger receipts than had been ex-pected, a somewhat liberal estimate for Houston tomorrow and some depression spot prices here and at the south The bureau report had practically no influence in Liverpool for some reason, and this fact led to considerable liquidation for local account. New York declined a points at the start and then ralled on the covering of shorts, but still later it moved downward again and fell 14 to 16 points below the final prices of yesterday and closed barely steady with sales of 221,160. New Orleans exerted a rather depressing influence at the decline, the futures there being 14 to 16 points lower. Besides, New Orleans and Mobile spot prices were weaker, although they were without quotable change. Liverpool advanced 132d on the spot, with sales of 12,000. Futures there advanced 3 to 3½ points, but lost this improvement and closed quiet. In Manchester yarns were hardening and cloths were quiet. The port receipts today were 14,454, against 55,886 last year and 43,083 in 1893. Thus far this week they are 164,974, aganst 159,749 thus far last week. The New Orleans receipts tomorrow are estimated at 7,000 to 9,000, against 11,075 last year and 12,18 in 1893. Houston expects tomorrow 7,00, against 8,408 last year. Hubbard Bros. & Co.'s Cotton Letter. New York, December 11.-Advices from Liverpool this morning were exceedingly disappointing in their character, and we Liverpool this morning were exceedingly disappointing in their character, and we are surprised in view of the many bullish advices which have come to hand from Manchester during the past week that the advance of this morning, though smaller than anticipated, was not maintained. It would appear that speculation was as dormant abroad as here, and the effect was larger than the estimate given by the department simply for the reason that for many years the department always under estimated the crop. Again, that the bureau should base its figures upon its own yield of the last season, which was exceeded by 500,000 bales by the commercial crop, was another fact which contributed to the weakness abroad. Locally the covering of the short interest yesterday left the market with out support unless the outside interest bought freely. This they failed to do; in fact, showed more anxiety to sell, and under their offerings, coupled with the local holdings, caused a decline of 12 to 13 points from last evening's closing priors. The semi-weekly movement shows receipts of $1,000 bales and shipments of 67,000 bales. On continued slow liquidation the market closes quiet and steady at the lowest prices of the day. Just at the close we received a cable from Bombay estimating the receipts to morrow at $2,000 bales, against 20,000 bales last year for the same week. Our market has been a great disappointment today, but the trade expects a slight reaction tomorrow in consequence of the advance in the southern markets.

Riorden & Co.'s Cotton Letter. New York, December If.—(Special.)—The tame response of Liverpool to our advance of yesterday was a bad disappointment to the bulls, and our market, which, with the exception of a brief spurt just after the call, declined throughout the day. Of course those who had bought on Monday and Tuesday were anxious to secure their profits or else to unload at as small a loss as possible. But besides this liquidation there was heavy selling for Liverpool and New England to hedge purchase of spot cotton, and the pressure was more than the market could stand. March opened at 8.45 and after advancing to 8.48 declined to 8.32. The close was barely steady, with March at 8.3268.33. If Liverpool should break tomorrow in sympathy with the decline here prices may go a little lower; but we believe that today's reaction will be only temporary, and we favor buying. New York, December 1r.-(Special.)-The

The Dry Goods Market.

The Dry Goods Market.

New York, December 11.—The advance in cotton yesterday on the publication of the agricultural bureau report encouraged hopes of a rising market for raw material, and the return of that influence as a strengthening factor in the dry goods market for cotton goods. The day's weakness in cotton has, therefore, been a disappointment. It is noteworthy, however, that a number of agents for southern mills report their manufacturers still adhere to higher priced cotton goods, and although they are willing to sell their products from stock or for near deliveries on current they are willing to sell their products from stock or for near deliveries on current market basis, not a few of them are distinctined to undertake obligations stretching far ahead. They are not troubled to any great extent at the moment by having, to turn down business of this character, as their indifference is just about equaled by the indifference of buyers to requirements not well within sight. Today's business in staple cotton and in seasonable cotton dress fabrics has been quite moderate and of about average proportions in farcy cottons for spring. The woolen and worsted goods market in heavy weights is unsettled.

Semi-Weekly Crop Report.

New Orleans, December 11.—New Orleans cotton exchange statement: Semi-weekly movement at 13 leading interior towns for 1895: Receipts, 81,067 bales; shipments, 66,629 bales; stock 422,855 bales. For 1894: Receipts, 123,901 bales; shipments, 109,-011 bales; stock, 298,559 bales. For 1893: Receipts, 102,273 bales; shipments, 93,539 bales; stock, 349,334 bales.

The Manchester Market.

The Manchester Market.

Manchester, December II.—The Guardian in its commercial article says: "There is a more cheerful feeling in some quarters where sellers have more business, India leading. In many directions, however, there is a decided scarcity of workable offers. There is a market demand for yarms and cloths made from Egyptian cotton. The decline in the price of silver discourages business. There have been inquires from China for heavy shirtings, drills, sheetings and bleaching cloths, but the offers have been largely unworkable. The decline in the rate of exchange has interfered with the placing of orders. There are signs of improvement in business for the minor markets. Yarns show a better tone with a hardening tendency.

The Sun's Cotton Review. The Sun's Cotton Review.

New York, December 11.—Cotton fell 4 points, recovered this and in some cases made a net advance of 1 to 2 points, but lost the improvement and dropped 12 to 14 points below yesterday's closing prices and ended barely steady with sales of 221,000 bales. Liverpool advanced 1-32d, on the spot with sales of 12,000 bales; futures advanced 3 to 3½ points, but lost this and closed quiet. The port receipts were 41,454 bales, against 38,218 last week. In Manchester cloths and yarns are hardening. Spot cotton here declined 1-16c.

bales, against 33,218 last week. In Manchester cloths and yarns are hardening. Spot cotton here declined 1-16c.

Today's Features—Liverpool was a millstone around the neck of the market today. The news from that center was disappointing, and this caused a liquidation by local operators. Besides the receipts were rather larger than some had expected; spot prices here were weaker, and finally, the speculation was on a small scale. It showed, greatly to the disappointment of the bulls, that Liverpool was not inclined to work might and main on the bull side simply because the bureau report of yesterday pointed to a crop of 6,375,000 bales. Yet Liverpool unquestionably continued active on the spot. Manchester advices were encouraging. If there had been a broader speculation there might have been a different story to tell. And even as the case now stands, there are advocates of better prices who have not hauled down their colors by any means, and who think that today's decline was a mere passing squall and that clear skies and smooth waters are ahead for the bulls, if not at once, then later on.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Closed 3-4c Lower and Corn Unchanged from Yesterday.

Wheat Closed 3-4c Lower and Corn Unchanged from Yesterday.

Chicago, December 11.—The morning hours of today's session of the board of trade were principally devoted to the discussion to the sensation of the hour—the suspension of F. J. Kennett, of the firm of Kennett, Hopkins & Co. from the privileges of the board for five years, as a penalty for having had business relations with a prominent bucket shop. Trading in wheat was almost entirely neglected, whilst the theme was uppermost, but about noon the regular business was resumed and prices sold off under offerings of long wheat by prominent local holders who had accumulated lines way up from 60 to 63 and were avenging their losses and profits today. The government report, which was issued yesterday, was interpreted by traders bullishly, but it was not possessed of sufficient force to sustain values. May wheat opened from 61%c to 61%c, sold between 62c and 62%c, closing at 61%261%c, sold between 62c and 62%c, closing at 61%261%c, sold between 62c and 62%c, closing at 61%261%c.

The opening on corn was noticeably firm by comparison with the tone of wheat at the same time. Some talk of the interior movement being retarded by bad weather was heard, which possibly induced some buying. The clearance, at the seaboard, when announced later, gave additional reason for firmness, but the weakness which became conspicuous in wheat about noon effectually overcame the beneficial results of previous information. Corn opened at 28%c, sold between 28%c and 28%c/c28%c, closing at 28%c, unchanged from yesterday. Cahs corn was firm early, but later became weak and declined ½c.

Oats—In acknowledgment of the strength exhibited by corn early, oats opened firm in sympathy with everything else, but declined before the close. There was no news and very little business. Several prominent scalpers sold moderately and some shorts covered. Cash oats were steady to firm early, but closed weak and ½c lower.

Provisions—The business in product was not any better than has been and prices we

Chicago, December 11.-Traders who resterday and this morning on the theory yesterday and this morning on the theory that the market always declines after a government report, were much happier today than their friends who take a skeptical view of such things, aithough the market was weak and foliowed the course these traders predicted. It would seem from past events that the real cause for the decline has been seling by holders, scalpers and professionals who can see but one side to the market after a six months' depression. The government report is generally conceded to be builish; still it is such a long time before another harvest, and the trade remembering that the December condition of the bumper crop of 1891 was only $5.3, renders the report an item of interest, but not, however, as determining what the final outcome will be, hence it had very little effect on prices. There is no doubt, however, that the condition of the growing wheat is very poor and the average in many sections greatly reduced. Foreign news was rather bearish, consisting of lower cables, higher consols and a much more favorable Turkish situation. The situation at home, however, continues very builish. The demand for cash wheat is, if anything, better than ever. There was an excellent demand here again today, and although only about 100,000 bushels were sold, this does not by any means represent the inquiry. Our advices from Fort Worth, Tex., say that mills in that state are shutting down, it being impossible to procure winter grade, and after a trial it is found that spring cannot be used without expensive changes in machinery. Reports from Memphis say there has been extraordinary demand for flour spring up there, and prices have advanced 25c per barrel, with the gival comments that millers can't secure any winter wheat except from Chicago and St. Louis. Notwithstanding receipts at Kansas City are large stocks there are really decreasing, thus showing that the wheat is rapidly going into consumption. Supplies abroad will probably be lighter during the winter are all and Chile 77,000 quarters. This year the that the market always declines after a government report, were much happier tocoarse grains and provisions were weak, largely in sympathy with the decline in wheat. Exports of corn amounted to over 500,000 bushels and there was some buying on predictions of wet weather. Packers were sellers of provisions. The hog market was very weak at 10c lower.

LAST SESSION ENDED

The Legislature Adjourned at Midnight Last Night.

CLOSING SCENES IN THE HOUSE

Speaker Fleming Says a Parting Word to the House

WILL NOT

Gives His Side to the Controversy with Mr. Callaway, the Governor's Private Secretary.

Both branches of the legislature adjourned sine die at midnight. The senate's last session came to an end promptly at 12 'clock, while that of the house continued few minutes after the midnight hour. The house spent a busy evening considering senate bills. A number of measwere read the third time and put upon their passage, but no bills of general Importance were taken up.

The closing hours of the session were characteristic of the usual scenes incident to the adjournment of the house. The ock session which began after 12 o'clock was characteristic of the usual merrimen Speaker Fleming took a graceful leave of the house after having received a vote of thanks from that body. He thanked the members for their kindness and courtesy, and made the statement that he would not be a candidate for the speaker-This statement he made that those friends of his who aspired to the speaker ship might not stop in their efforts.

He took occasion in the close of his re marks to make a privileged statement concerning the incident between Mr. Frank Callaway, private secretary to the governor, and himself. He presented an affidavit from the page who carried the message to Mr. Callaway to the effect that Mr. Callaway had said that the whole business, meaning the house, and not Mr. Fleming, might go to the devil. The incident referred to occurred Tuesday. Mr. Callaway appeared in the house with a massage from the governor. The body vas busy with the consideration of a point of order, and the speaker requested the secretary to wait. He waited for a half hour and then returned to the governor's office. After the lapse of a few minutes a page was sent to Mr. Callaway by the speaker to say that the house was ready to receive the message. Mr. Callaway, impatient at the delay, is alleged to have remarked that the whole business might go to the devil. In his statement last night Speaker Flenting said that it was not an issue between Mr. Callaway and himself; that he did not consider the message as personal, but that he understood that it was meant for the house. He had nothing against Mr. Callaway, and had kept the remark from the house because, if reported to the house, it would have to go upon the records of that body. He had intended to say nothing about it until the publication of an interview with Mr. Callaway in The Commercial rendered it necessary that he make an explanation. In this interview it appears that the interview had been directed to the speaker himself. The speaker presented the page's affidavit to show that it was not. Rockwell, of Chatham, a friend of both Mr. Callaway and the speaker, asked to be allowed to speak for Mr. Callaway.

The point of order was made that the hour of adjournment had arrived. Speaker Fleming requested as a personal favor to himself that the point be withdrawn. Mr. Hodges, of Bibb, who had made the point, withdrew it, but the gentleman from Whitfield objected, and the incident ended. Mr. Callaway was on the floor of the house at the time and was standing beside his friend, Mr. Rockwell. Mr. Callaway states that hitherto it has always been the custom for the house to receive the message from the governor whenever the messenger presents himself, and that he should not have been kept waiting when he appeared with the mes-

Jcseph Mansfield, in apprecia tion of his services to democracy, from his friends in the Georgia legislature, 1895." On the center of the badge is the coat of arms of the state of Georgia handsomely engraved. It is one of the handsomest badges of its kind ever seen in Atlanta. The presentation was made by Hon. E. R. Jones, of the county of Dougherty, in be half of the house, in an appropriate speech

Mr. Mansfield made a happy speech, and thanked the members for their kindness. Mr. Mansfield is one of the stanchest democrats in the general assembly and is universally beloved by all who know him. McIntosh county has been ably represent ed by the gentleman, and it is earnest hope of those present that his constitu-ents will return him to the next house. Some Senate Notes.

A great many people have forgotten very likely, that there was a prohibition measure, favorably reported by the tem-perance committee, before the senate all during the session, which could have been called up and put on its passage at any time, had it been desired. The measure referred to is the one introduced at the session of the senate last year by Senator Mercer. It was introduced as a substitute for the Bush bill and was favorably pass ed upon by the temperance committee the senate. The provisions of the bill a general way were that liquor should b sold in sealed packages and could not be opened on the premises of the selling place. A great many think it is a good bill, but as it was not called up this session it is

Senator Mercer also had another matter which he intended to bring before the sen ate-the matter of swamp drainage by convicts of the state. An appropriation of $8,000 was made by the general assembly for a geological survey of the river swamp last year and the work of surveying has been carried on to some extent and will be continued. The reason the matter was not brought up again before this session is that the lease of the convicts will not expire for several years and the law could not be put into effect at once. The danse du ventre bill-the famous bill of which "Jones of Dougherty" is author, and which was the first bill passed by the house this session—was not reached in the senate, and is not one of Georgia laws. The bill passed the house like a whirlwind. Jones, of Dougherty, made one of the most elquent arguments ever heard on the floor of the house favoring its passage, and other members waxed eloquent in their speeches against the vulgar Midway dance. The modest members applauded and the women in the gallery applauded and the bill went on to the senate. Here it was referred to the general judiciary committee. That committee re-ported adversely on the bill, and no senator cared enough about it to move to disagree to the report of the committee and the bill simply died pending, as many other bills die. Senator Nat E. Harris, the able chairman of the general judiciary committee of the senate, was presented with a fine goldheaded cane last night by members of that committee. The presentation was in open senate, and the presentation speech was delivered in a few eloquent words by Sentor Claiborne Snead plied to the compliment and remembrance in a most touching speech.

President Venable was presented with gold watch chain by the senate in appreciation of his services as presiding officer. The senate also requested one of Mr. Venable's pictures to adorn the walls of of the most pleasant incidents of yest day was the presentation of Chairma Boynton, of the finance committee, by the committee of a very elegant Dresden clock. The presentation speech in behalf of the committee was made by Chairman Pro Tem. Boifeuillet, to which Chairman Boynton made response. It was the proper remembrance of an able and faithful official wh has rendered the state magnificent service in his capacity of a representative and

Mr. Boynton's Position.

Editor Constitution—In your issue of this day in an articlé headed "In Legislative Halls" you do me a personal favor by stating my position on the $240,000 ap propriation, but you have unintentionally and unconsciously placed me in an unpleasant and inconsistent attitude on this measure by saying that I "opposed the substi-tute which had for its purpose practically to distribute the $80,000 already in the treasury to the credit of this fund." The fact is, I was the mover of that substitute and earnestly supported it and urged its adoption for economic reasons. The house, however, took a different view of the matter under the impression that there were sufficient funds in the treasury to meet the entire appropriation of $240,000. But this being not true and inasmuch as the appro-priation was made, it became necessary, as insisted, to issue the treasury warrants or to authorize a short loan. The senate has very wisely provided for this loan by au-thorizing the governor to negotiate it, and it meets with my hearty approval. In justice to me I hope you will note this correction in your next issue. Respectfully, JEFF L. BOYNTON.

The David of the People.

He Slays Great Diseases With His Little Pellets

571 PERSONS.

Declare They Have Been Cured Since Wednesday, the 4th Inst., and No Doubt Hundreds More Have Been Made Well by the Use of His Remedies Who Have Not Reported.

Tuesday was a record-breaker in the sale of Munyon's remedies at the retail stores of Atlanta. Several of our leading druggists were visited and without a single exception they all declared that during their whole business experience they have never seen medical preparations of any kind that sold so rapidly as Munyon's, and agreed that so rapidly as Munyon's, and agreed that this enormous demand could only be created by the wonderful curative power of these remedies. Almost every person pur-chasing relates how some friend has been cured in a few hours, or else, having been sured themselves, they desire to send the nedicine to some friend far away, whom they know to be suffering.

A half-hour spent in any drug store where these little pellets are sold will convince the most skeptical that Professor Munyon has indeed discovered a new meth od of treating disease which will cure 90 per cent of the people who use them.

In not one single instance did the reporter hear anything but the highest praise for the remedies and he was told by the pharmacists that in almost every case where the cures had failed to give relief it was proven that the wrong remedy had been taken, through the ignorance of the person as to what disease he was suffering from From facts gathered it seems that Mun-yon's generous free distribution of Rheumatic Cure to the citizens of Atlanta will result in increased renown, as wherever you go you hear the name of Munyon associated with the wonderful cures he has

If you are suffering with any disease hatever, you can make no mistake in giving these cures a trial, as they cost but 25 cents, and are perfectly harmless. CAU-TION: A certain druggist, on being asked f he kept Munyon's remedies, replied "Yes, a few, but don't sell them if I can help it. I have a large stock of other nomeopathic remedies on hand, and, while this advertising is going on propose to push them on the people who call for Munyon's whenever I can." We wish to say right here that life and death are serious sub ects and the greatest crime man can be gullty of is to deceive and trifle with human afflictions. Such a person is unworthy of your confidence in any particular what-ever. Beware of the man who tells you that these medicines are just as good, for there are no medicines made that resemble Munyon's in formula or effect

Something of the Troubles of the Creole Kitchen at the Fair.

ALL DONATIONS ARE CUT OFF

What the Exhibitors Who Gave Donations Say-Troubles Have Now Gone to the City Court.

There is trouble in the Creole kitchen on the exposition grounds.

This kitchen was intended to be the creme de la creme of refreshment resorts at the exposition. It was indirectly conducted by the woman's department of the exposition, and was looked after immediately by the ways and means committee, of which Mrs. Hugh Hagan is chairman and Mrs. Grant Wilkins treasurer. In order to make their work a great success the woman's board solicited dona-tions from the J. W. H. Huckins Company, manufacturers of Huckins's famous soups, and of the H. J. Fleckinger Com-pany, California canned fruits, and Smith Bros., New Orleans, manufacturers of the celebrated Cobana coffee.

It seems that these firms in with others denated goods to the woman's board also withdrew, preferring to have only brands of goods of their kind sold at the Creole kitchen. The ways and means committee becoming dissattled with their manager, Mr. W. T. Edmondson, with-drew their support from the Creole kitch-en and established a restaurant in the woman's building.

In doing this, the parties who had so generously donated goods to the woman's board also withdrew preferring to have their goods used in the manner in which they were intended. It is claimed that the ways and means committee, who have the direct management of the kitchen, were compelled to take this step in justice to themselves and to the people who had made donations. It is said they were unable to collect their percent from Mr. Edmondson, and have even gone so far as to nstitute suit for several hundred dollars that he is now due them.

After the ladies' board withdrew their patronage from the Creole kitchen and dissolved their connection with Mr. Ed-mondson, Messrs. Huckins, Fleckinger and Smith Bros., who wave their goods here not on sale but on exhibition, and who have donated to the woman's board free of all cost all that they might need at the kitchen, were forced to take similar tors yesterday, he said:

"There has been trouble at the Creole kitchen from the very day it opened. Edmondson has not been disposed to do the square thing with the exhibitors or with the woman's board. In fact, he acted in such bad faith that the board was compelled to withdraw their support and in-terest from the Creole kitchen and to es-tablish themselves in the woman's building. Of course as Messrs. Huckins, Fleckinger and Smith Bros. and other parties donated goods to the ways and means committee, it was but just, right and proper that their goods should be served wherever the committee say. It is preposterous to think that the companies making an exhibit here would donate their goods to a private restaurant. Our houses made donations, believing that it would a good way of advertising their goods and at the same time be of benefit to the woman's department of the exposition. I understand that Edmondson has brought suit against some of the exhibitors who have withdrawn their donations from the Creole kitchen, but if he has it is simply a strike at the ways and means committee. He cannot possibly have any re-course whatever upon us. Our goods, as I have stated, are donated to the ways and means committee and are subject to its orders. The ladies could do nothing less than act as they did. There was one continual complaint from the people at Mr. Edmondson's management. 1 do not wish to do any one an injustice, but make this statement in justice to the ways and

POLICE MEET TODAY. Their Relief Association Will Elect

Officers for the Year. The Police Relief Association will hold an important meeting this morning. The annual election of officers will take place and several other matters of interest to the officers will be acted on.

The year just coming to an end illustrated the practicality of the association, a large sum of money having been paid to members on account of sickness and deaths in their families. The organization is invaluable to the police, doing a work of benevolence among the members.

Considerable interest centers in the election of a secretary of the association. Three active candidates are in the field-Officers John Abbott, J. H. Lockhart and J. A. Patterson. All have many friends in the department and the outcome of the race can not be foretold. The present officers of the association are Captain Manly, president; ex-Sergeant Oz-burn, vice president; John Abbott, secre-tary; Chief Connolly, treasurer.

WHO LET HIM GO?

Chief Connolly Trying To Solve Problem of State.

Chief Connolly is endeavoring to fix the responsibility for the escape of Tom Martin from the station house two days ago. The negro walked away from the prison in some manner, he being under a penalty of a $3.75 fine. The responsibility seems to have narrowed to Officers Parrish and Hart, court bailiff and stockade wagon driver, respectively.

The negro was counted out by Mr. Par-rish among a gang to be sent to the stockade. The officer says that the prisoner was turned over to Hart, but the latter says that he never got possession of the darky.

MILLION DOLLAR FIRE.

Nearly $750,000 Worth of Fine Clothing from a Large Wholesale House Destroyed in the Recent Mammoth Fire at Broadway and Bleecker St.,

Fire at Broadway and Bleecker St.,

New York.

In consequence of the late New York fire, the stock remaining that was not destroyed, aggregating $250,000 worth of high-grade winter clothing, has been ordered to be removed to Atlanta, Ga., and the fire insurance companies have arranged to occupy the salesroom building, 14 South Broad street, expressly for this great fire insurance sale. Everyone is requested to take notice that this genuine fire insurance sale of clothing commences Saturday, December 14th, at 19 o'clock in the morning, and will last positively for ten days only, in the large salesroom, 14 South Broad street, Atlanta, Ga. Everything will be sold quick at retail for 25 cents on the dollar of actual cost of manufacture. The stock consists of fine winter clothing for men's, boys' and children's wear. The appraisers of the insurance companies, after carefully examining the stock of clothing, concluded that the goods were not so badly damaged as the assured manufacturer claimed, and falling to agree upon actual loss, the appraisers were forced to take the stock and turn it into money at once. Therefore this stock of clothing must be sold quick to make a final settlement. The goods are appraised at 25 cents on the dollar, and this is all we want for them. As the time of this great sale is limited, everything will be sold rapidly. This is the first time a sale of such extraordinary magnitude has taken place in Atlanta, and will never occur again. It will pay you to come 100 miles to buy at this sale and save 75 cents on every dollar spent here. One glance at these bargains will furnish an idea of what can be secured at the great fire insurance sale. Here they are—until Christmas only: 65 cents buys men's pants worth $2.50; 95 cents buys better pantaloons, in ten styles. can be secured at the great fire insurance sale.
